Charge Illegal Possession of Pentagon Papers

Arrest Warrant Issued for Ellsberg

DANIEL ELLSBERG

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department issued an arrest warrant Friday for Daniel Ellsberg, charging him with illegal possession of a top-secret Pentagon study on the Vietnam War.

The complaint and warrant, filed in Los Angeles and disclosed in Washington early this morning, said Ellsberg had one 47-volume set and another 18 volume set of the documents. All but one were classified "top secret."

The documents held by Ellsberg were xerox copies and included "descriptive text, cablegrams, memoranda, decision papers and other internal executive branch documents," the complaint said.

The complaint was signed by U.S. Magistrate Venetta S. Tassopoulos in Los Angeles and charged Ellsberg with unauthorized possession and failure to return top secret government documents. The charges carry a maximum $10,000 fine and 10 year prison sentence, the Justice Department said.

An affidavit filed with the warrant and signed by two members of the Rand Corp., said Ellsberg had access to the entire 47-volume study held by that firm and was given actual custody of 27 of the volumes "at various times between October 23, 1969 and April 7, 1970."

Another affidavit signed by Ellsberg's former wife, Carol, said she had learned in October, 1969, that her husband was reproducing top secret documents. She said she warned him that "this was a criminal act and he could go to jail for it."

Ellsberg replied, according to his wife, that he was doing nothing illegal and that he would only give it (the documents) to authorized people like Sens. (J. William) Fulbright and (Charles) Goodell.

Although the documents bore a "top secret" stamp, Mrs.

Ellsberg said: "After the xeroxing, he cut the classification off."

Still another affidavit signed by FBI agent Courtland Jones said Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., had told him that Ellsberg had given him (McCloskey) "a number of documents . . . which purported to relate to decisions made in the executive branch of the U.S. government between 1961 and 1965."

McCloskey told Courtland he still retains those papers.

The affidavits signed by the Rand officials — Richard Best, the corporation's security officer; and Jan Butler, top secret control officer — confirmed that Ellsberg had access to the study but said he did not have permission to reproduce it or take it outside the corporation's Santa Monica, Calif., headquarters.

Ellsberg joined the Rand Corp. in 1967 after serving two years with the State Department in a high-level Vietnam policy role. He left the firm three years later to become a senior research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In her statement, Mrs. Ellsberg said she became "extremely concerned" when she learned her husband was copying the top secret documents.

But he replied, she said, that "he had done nothing illegal and there was no official secrets acts in this country."

"He further said that people did this sort of thing all the time in their memoirs and that they mentioned things in print that had been top secret," she said.

Mrs. Ellsberg said her husband told her he "was very concerned about the war in Vietnam and that he was going to be actively working against it and that there were things that had not been disclosed which should be known."

"He then said he would only give it to authorized people like Sens. Fulbright and Goodell," she said.

Ellsberg, 40, a Marine veteran, graduated summa cum laude from Harvard in 1952, earned his masters in 1954, was a junior fellow during 1956-59, and received his doctorate in economics from Harvard in 1963.

In 1964 he joined the Defense Department as a special assistant to John T. McNaughton, assistant defense secretary for international security. McNaughton was responsible for coordinating the Pentagon report which traced U.S. involvement in Vietnam from the Truman administration to 1968.

He left Rand last year to join MIT's center for International Studies, concentrating on Southeast Asian studies. He has written two books on the making of U.S. policy in Indochina and reportedly is working on a third.

Supreme Court to Hear Case Today

Fish Backs Media in Pentagon Controversy

KINGSTON — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. told a group of 13 Ulster County clergymen Friday that he supports the positions of the several major U.S. newspapers that have published excerpts from the "classified" Pentagon report on the origins of the Vietnam war.

Speaking at Temple Emanuel in a meeting arranged by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, Fish said that the exposure of the Pentagon documents would be very helpful in finding out how and why America became involved in the conflict in Indochina.

The Republican representative for the 28th Congressional District added that he would be "hard put" to justify a legal basis for America's involvement in Vietnam.

Meanwhile, The Associated Press reports the Supreme Court hears argument today on Justice Department suits to stop the New York Times and the Washington Post from publishing uncensored articles on the secret Pentagon history of the war.

Until the justices reach a decision the newspapers will be unable to print material the Justice Department considers sensitive to national security or foreign relations.

Fish also expressed other thoughts on Vietnam-related topics. He predicted that the Mansfield amendment to the Draft Bill recently passed by the Senate faces almost certain defeat in the House. On the idea of setting a date for complete withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam, Fish said that he wished that the U.S. was already out, but that attacks on the president's Vietnam policy undermine his efforts to bring peace to Southeast Asia, and also affect his position in the Middle East and at the SALT talks. Fish also stressed the need for confidence in the present administration.

Present at the meeting, in addition to Eichhorn, were the Rev. Richard Darling, the Rev. David Arnold, the Rev. Richard Lake, the Rev. Donald Biddle, the Rev. John Gilmore, the Rev. Richard Brinn, the Rev. Harold Schadevald, the Rev. Daniel Ogden, the Rev. Charles Bonner, the Rev. Jesse Kitchen, the Rev. Randall Bosch and Rabbi Harry Schechtman.

Fish ended his presentation by encouraging an "activist" clergy who go beyond the activities of their own parish or synagogue and are involved in the "great social and moral issues of the day."

In Washington today, attorneys for two newspapers are arguing that under the First Amendment the government has no authority to block publication. By a 5-4 vote Friday, however, the high court already cut into this position by continuing restraints imposed by lower courts.

Each side was to have exactly one hour to argue, with the government's side going first.

"I develop grave reservations as to wisdom and necessity of so doing. Such action would be a step in reversing long standing policy of commitment of ground combat forces in SVN (South Vietnam)." "Once this policy is breached, it will be very difficult to hold line."

The study, according to The Times' account, said Taylor's views represented a change from August 1964 when he recommended landing Marines at Da Nang following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

Westmoreland and his staff, the study said, "saw in the deployment of the Marines the beginning of greater things to come."

The government's principal argument is that courts can't impose a decision reached by the president's Vietnam policy.

Crucial Escalation.... 'Without Much Planning'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The turning point decision in American involvement in Vietnam — deployment of 3,500 Marines at Da Nang on March 8, 1965 — was made by the Johnson administration "without much planning," The Los Angeles Times quotes secret Pentagon study as saying.

The Times published in Saturday's editions what it said were previously unpublished portions of the Pentagon study which talk of the deep significance of the move to protect the Da Nang base.

"The landing of the Marines at Da Nang was a watershed event in the history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam," The Times quoted the study as saying. "It represented a major decision made without much fanfare and without much planning."

"Whereas the decision to begin bombing of North Vietnam was the product of a year's discussion, debate and a lot of paper, and whereas the consideration of pacification policies reached Talmudic proportions over the years, this decision created less than a ripple."

"A mighty commandment of U.S. foreign policy—thou shalt not engage in an Asian land war—had been breached."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and in 1965 the U.S. ambassador in Saigon, had "deep reservations" about the Marine deployment. The Pentagon study on American involvement in Vietnam said, as reported by The Times.

However, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, favored the action. The Times said, it said the study reported Taylor as cabling President Lyndon B. Johnson:

"I develop grave reservations as to wisdom and necessity of so doing. Such action would be a step in reversing long standing policy of commitment of ground combat forces in SVN (South Vietnam)." "Once this policy is breached, it will be very difficult to hold line."

The study, according to The Times' account, said Taylor's views represented a change from August 1964 when he recommended landing Marines at Da Nang following the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

Westmoreland and his staff, the study said, "saw in the deployment of the Marines the beginning of greater things to come."

Widespread Damage From Summer Storm

KINGSTON — A violent thunderstorm that rocked the Kingston area Friday night left trees and limbs scattered throughout the city today, caused minor flooding in the downtown Urban Renewal project, left hundreds of customers throughout the county without electricity or phone service and resulted in at least one minor fire.

Work crews from the Public Works Department, New York Telephone Company and Central Hudson Gas and Electric labored throughout the night to restore disrupted services.

Telephone crews were still working today to restore phone service in some parts of High Falls and Shokan. The storm has severed most communications facilities in those areas since about 8 p.m. Friday.

Central Hudson repairmen worked throughout the night, but had restored all service by this morning. Lines were downed "throughout the area," said an official, because of the high winds and driving rain. Major trouble spots were reported in the Lucas Avenue area, where a large tree toppled over on high tension wires. Electricity was cut off in Rolling Meadows and Hurley Heights at about 8:15 p.m.

The Kingston Fire Department was called out several times Friday night to prevent possible fires from igniting as the result of fallen power lines. No fires were reported in the city last night.

Woodstock volunteer firemen, however, were dispatched at 8:31 p.m. Friday. Chief Duncan Wilson reported that a lightning bolt had struck a pine tree in Wittenberg. The lightning "peeled the bark right off the tree," said Wilson, but the fire was quickly extinguished.

Local police authorities said that there were no highway mishaps attributed to the sudden storm.

Some minor flooding was reported in downtown Kingston. Mud slides were reported in sections of the downtown Urban Renewal project along lower Broadway, forcing temporary detours on some streets. Flooding conditions were also reported on Lincoln Street and the East Chester Street bypass.

Broadway Housing Project To Cost Additional $300,000

KINGSTON — The Urban Development Corporation has been forced to re-design its 132-unit, $3.4 million housing project in Broadway East at an additional cost of $300,000 because of subterranean soil conditions. The Freeman learned today.

Despite, that fact, UDC intends to continue the project to completion. Herbert Morris, area director for UDC, told The Freeman, "We will fulfill our commitment to the City of Kingston," Morris said.

UDC will have to change the foundation design of its five buildings from spread footings to piles. "We don't know yet, how deep we'll have to go," Morris said. Test borings showed "old tires, garbage, very unsettled conditions," on the 113-

"Our initial test borings did not show such conditions," Morris said. "We knew it was bad but not this bad."

Still, Morris said that the redesign has been completed, the construction contract has been renegotiated with Leon Perlstein of South Fallsburg, and work will resume early next week. "We're behind schedule now," Morris said. "But we should catch up very quickly."

All the grading for the project has been completed, Morris added. Meanwhile, down the hill, work is progressing at the new city hall and Robert Milliken, "old tires, garbage, very unsettled conditions," on the 113-that the building should be substantially completed by the end of next month.

Milliken, responding to inquiries about cracks in the walls of the new building, said to his knowledge, "there are no problems." "Occasionally there is a crack in a block," Milliken said. "But that could happen to any building. We're down there every day (to inspect). There are no problems."

The UDC apartment project will provide parking for 179 vehicles in addition to facilities for recreation including a basketball court, and a playground. Extensive planting of trees, shrubs and grass is planned.

The buildings will be laid out similar to a horseshoe with the biggest building, a four-story structure on the north just below St. Mary's Church and four, three-story buildings facing it to the south.

Rents, under the proposed schedule, would be $123 for a "zero" bedroom apartment (efficiency apartment), $137 per month for a one-bedroom apartment, $156 per month for a two-bedroom apartment and $176 per month for a three-bedroom apartment.

Seventy per cent of the apartments or 92 apartments, will be for middle-income group tenants. Twenty per cent or 27 apartments will be for low income persons and 10 per cent, or 13 apartments, will be for senior citizens.

Morris said that every attempt would be made to keep the rents down to what was originally planned, despite the estimated $300,000 increase in construction costs.

Hughes Introduced to Drug Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and three of his colleagues, who were chased out of a Harlem “shooting gallery,” are the possessors of five glassine envelopes they assume contain heroin.

Hughes got a graphic introduction to the desperation of the ghetto drug situation Friday when he was threatened by an addict whom he had interrupted while apparently in the act of “shooting up.”

The incident occurred when Hughes led a procession of senators, aides and newsmen into a tenement cellar where half a dozen addicts were in various stages of preparing heroin doses.

When a television crew turned a bright light on the surprised addicts, one shouted at Hughes, “Get the — out of here. I’m gonna break this knife up your —.”

Although nobody actually saw a knife, Hughes and the entourage beat a hasty retreat.

Hughes, chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Alcoholism and Narcotics, spent the day studying the drug problem in New York. He was accompanied by Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.

The visit to the “shooting gallery” developed after the senators were told a “detoxification clinic” at Harlem Hospital had to deal with the task of treating addicts who could walk out of the hospital and across 137th Street into the basement, where pushers sold heroin.

While they were at the hospital, the senators were shown how easy it is to obtain heroin in Harlem.

Mrs. Martha Davis, executive director of the United Harlem Drug Fighters, sent a 16-year-old boy who looked much younger to a corner candy store. He returned with five glassine envelopes bought for $10.

Hughes said the envelopes would be tested to confirm they contained heroin and would be used as evidence by the subcommittee.

“It’s a national tragedy that a small boy can buy drugs openly,” the Iowa senator said. After the incident in the basement, police visited the cellar but found no one there.

SENATOR VISITS HARLEM — Carrying a bag of heroin bought for him by a 16-year-old clinic worker, Iowa Senator Harold Hughes leaves a basement in the Harlem area of New York after being apparently threatened with a knife by a man in the cellar. Hughes and three other senators visited Harlem to collect evidence on the drug problem. Hughes had entered the cellar when it was mentioned that it was used as a “shooting gallery” for a place addicts used to take heroin. No arrests were made in the incident. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Saugerties Teachers Reject New Contract

A tentative agreement on a teachers contract with Saugerties Central School District and ratified by the Board of Education at a recent meeting was turned down by members of Saugerties Teachers Association by a 4 to 1 vote at their Thursday night meeting held at Dutch Arms Chapel.

Graham Barkhoff, negotiator for the STA, said more than 125 members were in attendance and voted on the proposal. He noted that two factors entered into the rejection of the contract proposal. The STA asked for recognition of those who have been teaching in the system for from 20 to 25 years and had submitted economic longevity steps. Also, there was a misunderstanding on interpretation of the tenure statement in the proposed contract.

Arrangements are being made to request a meeting with the Board of Education to resolve these questions amicably. The Teachers approved a resolution naming three members to contact Board President Anthony Rioszi to explain the reasons for rejection of the contract.

Negotiation, which began in January, reached an impasse

Mets Sweep Doubleheader in Montreal

MONTREAL (AP)—Bud Harrelson shone like an All-Star in the second game of the New York Mets double-header sweep over the Expos on Friday night.

Harrelson, tops in the balloting for the National League shortstop spot in the All-Star game, drove in three runs and made a key defensive play as the Mets topped Montreal 4-2 in the nightcap.

They had won the opener 4-1 behind the 10-strikeout pitching of Nolan Ryan, now 7-4, and were breezing along with a 4-1 lead in the fifth inning of the nightcap until starter Ray Sadecki ran into trouble.

A two-out homer by Ron Hunt cut the margin to 4-2, and a walk to Stan Swanson and a double by Clyde Mashore put the tying runs in scoring position. Gil Hodges brought in right-hander Danny Frisella to pitch to righty Bob Bailey.

Bailey lofted a pop fly to short left field, the kind of play where short stops and left fielders sometimes run into each other. Not this time. Harrelson made sure of that.

"I've told him (left fielder Cleon Jones) that I'm going to catch the ball no matter what in that situation," Harrelson said after the game. "I can hear him coming, but I hate to get out of the way then, because he might get out of the way, too."

"I'd rather get creamed there and hope I hold onto the ball," Harrelson caught the ball, and managed to avoid getting creamed this time by side-stepping Jones.

Frisella went on to shut out the Expos, and the Mets had their 4-2 win and a sweep of the twi-nighter.

Harrelson provided offense as well as defense in that second game, driving in three of New York's four runs. "That's what I'm paid for, RBIS," Harrelson, who now has 20, joked.

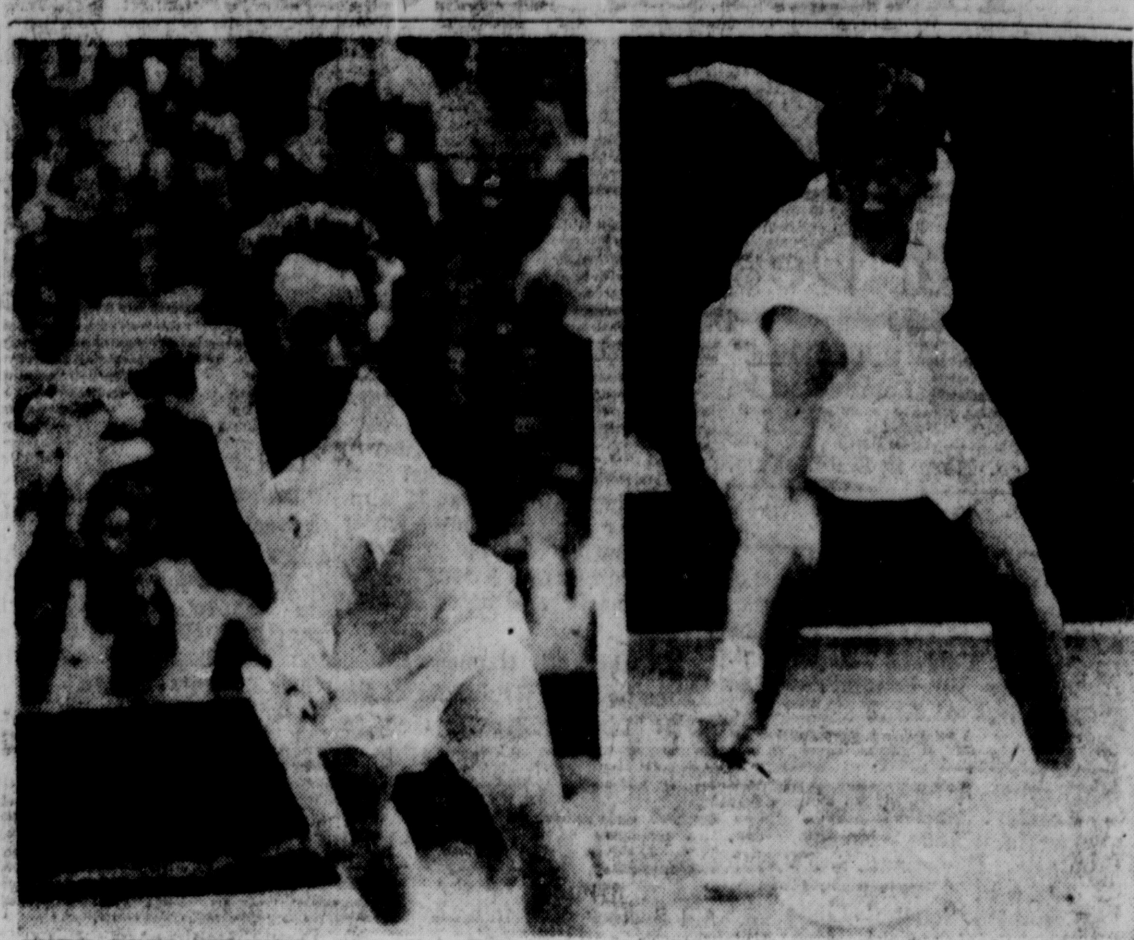

His two-run single in the top of the fifth proved to be the difference. "It was a good fast ball—nine times out of ten I don't hit that pitch," he said. "I just wanted to be quick and get a piece of it."

Quick and sure-handed, that's Harrelson. The All-Star.

Alou drove in four runs with a triple and a double. Murcer smacked two triples and Gibbs ripped a two-run homer to back Yankee pitcher Steve Kline, 6-6, who yielded runs on Tim Lincecum's double in the second and Frank Howard's 11th homer in the sixth.

Blue breezed to his sixth shutout and 16th complete game of the year as the A's widened their American League West lead over the Royals to 10 games.

Oakland managed just five hits off Kansas City starter Mike Hedlund but were aided by a pair of damaging errors. Sal Bando led the winners with three RBI on two singles and Mike Epstein collected his 10th homer.

THEY KEEP WINNING—Australia's Rod Laver (L) returns to Tom Okker, of the Netherlands, during their match at Wimbledon, England, yesterday. Top-seeded Laver defeated Okker, 7-5, 6-1, 2-6, 7-5. Yanks Bomb Washington Nine

By the Associated Press

It's been a long, long time since the New York Yankees have lived up to their old nickname, the "Bronx Bombers."

But with a couple of new pieces of artillery on the field Friday night, the Yanks bombed Washington 12-2, devastating the Senators' newest weapon in the process.

The biggest blast was by Ron Blomberg, who unloaded his first major league home run in his first game since being recalled from the minors.

And although a few of the veterans, Felipe Alou, Bobby Murcer and Jake Gibbs, led the assault, it was an "old recruit" who got most of the attention.

Ron Swoboda, who played for the New York Mets for six years—and became a symbol of their dramatic rise from ineptitude to championship brilliance—before being traded to Montreal this season, donned a new New York uniform only hours after the Expos dealt him to the Yanks.

He was loudly cheered as he stepped into the batter's box in the first inning and responded with a single that drove in the third and final run of the frame.

The Yanks added four more in the third to chase rookie starter Pete Brobert, Washington's No. 1 selection in the secondary phase of the recent baseball draft.

In other American League action, Oakland's amazing rookie, Vida Blue notched victory No. 18 with a five-hit 12-7 strike-out 7-9 triumph over Kansas City. Bill Gilbreth fired a five-hitter in his first major league game as Detroit ripped Cleveland 6-1. Baltimore took Boston 7-3. Milwaukee topped Minnesota 3-1 and the Chicago White Sox silenced California 2-0.

Swoboda, who finished with one hit in four at-bats, said he was "still numb" from the day's hectic events—making the plane to New York by a scant five minutes only to find the airline had lost all his baseball equipment—and added his enthusiasm over the trade was "tempored by fatigue."

Alou drove in four runs with a triple and a double. Murcer smacked two triples and Gibbs ripped a two-run homer to back Yankee pitcher Steve Kline, 6-6, who yielded runs on Tim Lincecum's double in the second and Frank Howard's 11th homer in the sixth.

Blue breezed to his sixth shutout and 16th complete game of the year as the A's widened their American League West lead over the Royals to 10 games.

Oakland managed just five hits off Kansas City starter Mike Hedlund but were aided by a pair of damaging errors. Sal Bando led the winners with three RBI on two singles and Mike Epstein collected his 10th homer.

Harrelson, called up from Toledo last Thursday, walked seven Indians and hit another but also fanned seven and settled down after working out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning. Al Kline and Willie Horton homered for the Tigers and Mickey Stanley provided a two-run single as Detroit snapped a 1-1 tie with three in the seventh.

Baltimore retained its 6½-game lead in the East as Paul Blair walloped a two-run, tie-breaking triple in the ninth. Boog Powell and Frank Robinson homered for the Orioles and Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli unloaded for the Red Sox.

Tommy Harper was Milwaukee's big gun with a two-run homer in the eighth after John Briggs had put the Brewers on top in the second with a 374-footer. Skip Lockwood scattered eight Minnesota hits for the victory.

The White Sox, winning their fifth in a row for the longest victory streak they've seen in two years, got run-scoring singles in the first from Carlos May and Tom Egan. Tommy John and Bart Johnson made them stand up, teaming for a six-hitter.

Stargell Slugs Number 27

By United Press International

It might be a terrifying thought to National League pitchers but what if Willie Stargell was healthy?

Stargell, batting at an incredible pace this season, ripped his 27th home run and drove in four runs Friday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates clubbed the Philadelphia Phils 14-4. Stargell, playing with a badly damaged left knee, leads the majors in homers and has driven in 76 runs in 83 games. His closest competitor in the RBI department is Atlanta's Henry Aaron, with only 56.

Jackie Hernandez and Richie Hebner each hit two homers for the Pirates but it was Stargell's bat which helped the Pirates jump off to an 11-2 lead after only three innings.

The Pirate outfielder, who's hitting at a .319 clip, had three extra base hits in the first three innings and drove in four runs in a game for the third time this week.

Stargell, who had a pair of knee operations a few years back, is hoping he can finish out the season. "The left one hurts a lot," he said. "It feels much like it did the last time I had to have surgery and I feel certain the cartilage damage will require another knee operation at the end of the season."

Elsewhere in the National League, New York swept Montreal 4-1 and 4-2, Atlanta stunned Cincinnati twice 8-6 and 18-3, Houston edged San Francisco 5-4, Chicago blasted St. Louis 12-0 and San Diego shocked Los Angeles 5-4.

Stargell's double highlighted a three-run first and Hernandez first homer triggered a four-run second. Hernandez also homered in the four-run third to help Steve Blass coast to his ninth victory against three losses.

Ralph Garr's eighth-inning double brought home the winning run in the opener and the Braves erupted for 10 runs in the first two innings of the second game to romp past Cincinnati.

Darrell Evans drove in three runs in the first game as the Braves' "gentle" winless Jim Merritt to his 10th loss of the season. Rookie Earl Williams had four RBIs in the second game, three on a home run.

Jack "Hiatt's" run-producing single in the ninth inning capped a two-run rally and boosted Houston over the Giants. It was the 19th loss in San Francisco's last 23 games at the Astrodome.

Houston tied the score on a wild pitch before Hiatt, a former Giant, drove in the run that snapped San Francisco's winning streak at seven games.

Rookie pitcher Bill Bonham collected two hits during a 10-run seventh inning and held St. Louis to four hits in five innings as the Cubs mauled the Cardinals. Chicago had 20 hits in the game and oddly, only one, Jim Hickman's double, was for extra bases.

Dave Campbell's bases loaded single in the ninth inning drove in two runs and lifted San Diego past the Dodgers. Bob Barton's single, a double by pinch-hitter Larry Stahl and an intentional walk filled the bases to set the stage for a Campbell's game-winning hit.

Canonero II Finally Sold

NEW YORK (UPI)—Canonero II, winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was sold to Robert J. Kleberg Jr. Friday for a sum estimated at over $1 million.

W. J. "Buddy" Hirsch, who will train the horse for Kleberg, still had to be signed before the transaction "becomes" official but that Kleberg told him all negotiations had been completed and agreed upon.

Kleberg, owner of the King Ranch, made the purchase from Pedro Baptista of Caracas.

Canonero II, a Kentucky-bred bay colt, returned to Kentucky from Venezuela as a rank outsider in the Derby and won going away. He also captured the Preakness in impressive fashion and went into the Belmont Stakes as an odds-on favorite to complete the Triple Crown sweep.

However, a foot infection and a skin rash prior to the race apparently troubled him and he finished fourth. He is still bothered now by an infected hock.

Hirsch said he plans to race Canonero again "if and when he is able. But I expect it will be quite a while before he gets back to the races. I don't think it will be before the Santa Anita meeting next January or February."

Rocky Vetoes Sports Bill

ALBANY N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller has vetoed a bill that would have allowed high school athletes to participate in up to three post-season athletic contests sponsored by nonprofit organizations, the governor's office announced today.

Rockefeller said the legislation was opposed by the State Education Department, the State School Boards Association and the State Public High School Athletic Association.

"The bill makes no provision for responsible supervision of sponsoring organizations to insure that unscrupulous characters attracted by the economic possibilities inherent in the promotion of all-star contests would be barred from sponsoring such events," the governor wrote in his veto message.

Back to New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Outfielder Ron Swoboda returned Friday to the New York baseball scene of which he was a colorful part for five full seasons with the Mets — this time a member of the Yankees.

The Yankees acquired the 6-foot-2, 195-pound slugger from the Montreal Expos in exchange for utility outfielder Ron Woods and a small amount of cash. Woods was assigned by Montreal to Winnipeg of the International League.

How a minus on your paycheck can be a plus in your future.

Sound confusing? It isn't, really. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck. That's the "minus."

That amount will then be invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. That's where the "plus" comes in. Because you're automatically saving for your future, with one of the safest investments there are: U.S. Savings Bonds.

And, by deducting a little at a time from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch financially. Before you know it, you'll have quite a tidy sum tucked away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

144 Pros at Concord Open

KIAMESHA LAKE
A total of 144 touring pros from all parts of the United States, as well as from Canada, Europe, South America and Australia will make up the starting field in the $63,000 Liggett & Myers-Concord Open at the Concord Hotel from Aug. 26 through Aug. 29.

The giant sized field was announced by Arthur Sues Jr., the Concord Open's tournament director, following his return from the United States Open at Merion, Pa. Sues said the response from pros eligible for the Concord tournament has been gratifying.

"Most of them have heard about the 'monster course' at the Concord," Sues said. "And all of them seem eager to want to test their skill on a layout which is so demanding. It is unlikely, however, that the PGA will elect to have the course played at its full distance of 7,672 yards."

One thing is certain. The forthcoming competition, which will be held simultaneously with the Liggett & Myers $205,000 United States Match Play Championship at Pinehurst, N.C., will make history for New York's Catskill Mountain region. The area has never played host to a major PGA tournament.

Three minor events in which a select handful of pros competed were staged at Concord's lush course for three straight seasons a few years ago. Out of them emerged the course record of 68 established by Frank Wharton and Wayne Yates in different tournaments.

"There's no doubt in my mind that the course record, impressive as it is, will be in jeopardy," says Sues. "We will have some of the most talented players in our ranks and any one of them on a given day could come up with a round that could burn up even the rugged Concord layout."

Watched keenly by pro golf's hierarchy will be the interest germinated among golf buffs by the Concord event. The resort hotel is a 90-minute drive by superhighway from Manhattan's George Washington Bridge and there has been some speculation that distance may keep galleries down.

"Don't you believe it," Sues maintains. "Today, golf is big business. Provide the public with the product and you're almost certain to receive a gratifying reaction. We'll have the product."

The Concord Open is receiving the backing of the New York State Kiwanis Foundation. Proceeds from the tournament will be donated to Camp Kiwanis, a summer vacation treat for underprivileged children near Rome, N.Y.

Mitchell Leads at Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Bobby Mitchell, looking for his first PGA tour win, led the way into today's third round of the ninth annual Cleveland Open Golf tournament at the par 71 Beechmont Country Club course after posting a 12-under-par, 66-130 for the first 36 holes.

His score was one shot off the low mark for 35 holes this year on the tour. It was set earlier at the Phoenix Open by Paul Horney, Gene Littler and Miller Barber at 129.

Mitchell, 28, of Danville, Va., took the lead Friday afternoon following Dan Sikes by one stroke. Sikes rallied on the back nine to come up with a 67, four-under-par, to hold onto second place at 131 1/2-under-par.

The 1970 U.S. Open champion, Tony Jacklin, shot a sizzling eight-under-par 63 Friday, the best round of the day, to reach the half-way mark with a 132 and hold onto third place in the tournament. He birdied eight holes, five of them on the front nine.

Mitchell, who turned pro 13 years ago at the age of 15, was eyeing the $30,000 first place money.

"I haven't had a bogey since par 67 Friday, and a two-stroke Mitchell we'll have to declare the 17th hole of the final lead going into the second round, but I'll tell you, that Jim of the remaining eight holes for week," Mitchell said. "This is missed six putts under eight very happy, especially the way a 31 on the back nine and his one of the prettiest and well conditioned courses we've played on seventh holes.

"I had a two-stroke lead on the field, shot a 67 Friday, and under par since I hadn't done my last hole," Sikes said with any good since the first hole.

Sikes, who shot an 11-under-amazing, "If anybody beats Friday," Sikes, who was one over on the day on the 11th, birdied five round of the U.S. Open last round, but lost it when he "But I'll tell you, that Jim of the remaining eight holes for week," Mitchell said. bogeyed. Believe me, I would have been happy with anything

What About Bay of Pigs?

A tantalizing question is raised by the N. Y. Times' determination to publish the series on the Pentagon papers dealing with Vietnam. Once before, in 1961, it had an inside track on some classified information: The plans for the so-called Bay of Pigs invasion. On that occasion the Times chose not to print the story in the interest of national security. But suppose it had decided otherwise? Would the big fiasco of the Kennedy Administration have been averted?

The world would have known that the U. S. was backing an armed invasion that was about to take place off Castro's Cuba. That the dictator knew all about it regardless is seen by the way he had a reception committee ready and waiting for the Cuban dissidents who sought to return to their homeland and overthrow Castro. It was pure disaster for the invaders from start to finish.

It was also disaster for President Kennedy, who said he would never again listen to advisors. He later said he thought the Times should have gone ahead and printed what it knew. He didn't establish, though, what he would have done under those circumstances. Would he have called the whole thing off?

Well, who knows?

History might have been changed, a tragedy averted, if the Bay of Pigs story came out. Publication of the Pentagon paper at this late date can change nothing really on Vietnam, other than to damage a few political reputations.

Volunteer Force

Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr is confident that Congress will extend the draft for two years, but after that he is convinced public opinion will not tolerate further renewals. The result will be, Tarr says, that an all-volunteer force is inevitable.

This must be the feeling both in Congress and the Executive. They have prepared for an all-volunteer armed force with the largest pay increase in history, hoping that will attract the number of volunteers needed to replace the conscripts.

Figures for May enlistments indicate that this hope is not ill-founded. Volunteers were several times those who came forward a year ago. While they fell far short of the needed number to replace the draftees, the fact that several times the number who volunteered last year did so in May is encouraging.

Tarr told the Reserve Officers' Association convention in San Diego that misunderstanding of our purposes in Southeast Asia led many Americans to view the draft with disfavor. Many in Congress have told him they will vote for extension now, but they will no longer support conscription in peacetime.

It is up to the various services to prepare to fill their own ranks. Already, advertising campaigns have begun to do just that. They are credited with the surge in the enlistments in May, with many men not only volunteering for Vietnam, but for combat duty.

Increased pay plays an important part in this surge. So does the large unemployment, which leads men to the services as an obvious alternative. But there is also the spur of patriotism, a desire to serve their country. This was the reason given again and again for volunteering. Such recruits will make willing soldiers, not reluctant ones.

Citing a possible link between dietary fat intake and heart disease, the Food and Drug Administration proposes to compel food makers to list animal or vegetable fat in their processed food products. Then consumers will be able to identify the source of the fat they eat, at their own risk.

"We're Strictly Maintaining a Hands-off Policy!"

David Lawrence Says U.S. Policy in Indo-China Depends on Soviet Action

WASHINGTON — The Senate on Tuesday adopted a novel resolution — the so-called "Mansfield Amendment." In passing it, 12 Republicans joined with 45 Democrats. The opposition consisted of 32 Republicans and 10 Democrats. So it's difficult to say it was a partisan matter.

Plainly the objective was to satisfy the "anti-war" sentiment in America and to make people believe that somehow a step was being taken that would end the Vietnam war more quickly than otherwise would be the case.

But the language of the amendment offered by Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, which won a majority vote, is unprecedented in history. For, while it doesn't undertake to command the President that he must withdraw American troops from Indo-China by a particular date, there is every effort to give the voters back home the impression that pressure has been imposed by Congress on the chief executive to accomplish the same purpose.

An examination of the text of the resolution reveals an attempt to write a presidential "policy" as follows:

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to terminate at the earliest practicable date all military operations of the United States in Indo-China, and to provide for the prompt and orderly withdrawal of all United States forces not later than nine months after the date of enactment of this section subject to the release of all American prisoners of war held by the government of North Vietnam and forces allied with such government."

Certainly this is nothing to which the Nixon Administration could object very much, because it already has announced that it expects to pull out the troops sometime in 1972, and a mere declaration of "policy" is vague.

The Mansfield Amendment goes on to say that Congress "urges and requests" the President to implement the above-expressed "policy" by initiating immediately certain actions. First, he is to set a final date as specified in the amendment for complete withdrawal contingent on the release of all American prisoners.

The President then is told to negotiate with the North Vietnamese government "for an immediate cease-fire" and also for "an agreement which would provide for a series of phased and rapid withdrawals of United States military forces from Indo-China in exchange for a corresponding series of phased releases of American Prisoners of War, and for the release of any remaining American prisoners of war concurrently with the withdrawal of all remaining military forces of the United States by not later than the date publicly proclaimed by the President pursuant to paragraph (1) Hereof or by such earlier date as may be agreed upon by the negotiating parties."

But nothing in the amendment says what the United States is supposed to do if North Vietnam refuses to negotiate a cease-fire or the release of the prisoners and determines to wait until all American troops are actually withdrawn before any prisoners are returned. In other words, it might take a year or two before the Hanoi regime would begin to turn over its prisoners of war. If and when negotiations do begin, North Vietnam is likely to delay making any promises as to what will be done until every American soldier is out of Indo-China.

The Hanoi government now knows that the Senate is determined that the United States shall promise to withdraw all forces quickly and by a fixed date. There is, however, no assurance that Hanoi will make a commitment as to the time when prisoners will be released. Meanwhile, South Vietnam is not going to accept without resistance attacks by North Vietnamese troops on its territory. Congress would hardly try to stop the American government from keeping some forces in Indo-China which could assist the South Vietnamese in case North Vietnam suddenly starts a major offensive. President Nixon has planned to leave a "residual force," primarily air units, for this purpose.

The House of Representatives may not accept the Senate resolution. Even if it does, there is no certainty what the Hanoi government is going to do. So the actual policy of the United States in Indo-China in the next year depends not so much on resolutions in Congress but on the instructions received by the North Vietnamese from the Soviet Union and Red China, which are supplying them with their weapons of war.

Henry J. Taylor Says Soviet Moving In on Malta

VALLETTA, Malta. — Hard on the heels of Labor Party Dom Mintoff's upset election as Prime Minister the Soviet Union is now moving in on Malta. Standing 58 miles south of Sicily and athwart the narrow bottleneck channel along the African coast, the island is a strategic imperative in the Mediterranean. Malta is to this sea what Cuba is to the Caribbean.

Soviet Ambassador M. Smirnovsky, accredited to London, is in command of the push for this bottleneck place.

Although the fact is hardly known abroad, all Soviet ambassadors to major Western countries such as Great Britain and France, as well as to all Communist bloc countries, are either full or alternate members of the Central Committee of the Communist party. They return regularly to Moscow for this ruling committee's plenum meetings and, evidently, the Malta decision was made at a recent session.

Only twice the size of the District of Columbia, this strategic island, with its ancient troglodyte houses built in the sides of the cliffs, has been ruled successively for 35 centuries by Phoenicians, Greeks, Carthaginians, Romans, Arabs, Normans, the Knights of Malta, France and Britain. The British annexed it in 1814.

On September 1, 1964, Malta achieved independence from Great Britain, and in 1965 NATO's protection was extended to this key island.

To add Moscow's persuasion, Ambassador Smirnovsky confidentially lifted with Mintoff officials the veil of Kremlin secrecy. He stated that the Soviet Mediterranean naval buildup, which began after the Israel-Arab 1967 war, will be permanent.

The influx of Red cruisers, destroyers, submarines, and lethal Kunda-class missile frigates carrying atomic warheads — and all of them fit to fight — is steadily increasing. The warships are serviced offshore as well as by an additional armada of traveling, deep-water, totally-equipped Soviet supply ships.

Smirnovsky asked that the Soviet fleet pay a courtesy call to Malta as its fleet not long ago paid to Cuba. His undercover request is pending. He threw out the bait that Soviet ships could patronize Malta for repairs, refueling, provisioning.

This is important to the new Maltese government. Such activity is the chief industry, and Britain's lesser use of Malta is creating severe unemployment. In fact, there is now a continuous migration from Malta to Australia and Canada.

But this bait itself can be poisoned bait. The last Russian ship to use the Valletta dockyard was curiously named Raphael, a big tanker. The Raphael laid on Soviet propaganda film shows and its crew distributed Communist revolutionary literature, and even Red guerrilla warfare instruction books, to the yard's Maltese workmen and throughout the island.

Smirnovsky urged that a Soviet Embassy be established here at Valletta and that the newly independent country place an ambassador in Moscow. At present Malta has only a nonresident ambassador to the Soviet Union, Dr. Arvid Pardo, who is in the United States.

A Soviet-held, or Soviet-sympathetic, Malta would mean that the U.S.S.R. could drop the boom at the absolute crossroad — the vital bottleneck — of the Mediterranean at any time. The Kremlin leaders move like a general moves on the battlefield. They try to take one pivotal position at a time to make the next move possible.

The southern flank of NATO would not be secure, and our great U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean could not function freely, without Malta. And, behind the scenes, the heat is on.

FPC Set Up Illegal Meeting With Gas Group Seeking Rise

WASHINGTON — As part of a Federal Power Commission effort to ramrod through a $4 billion gas rate increase, FPC officials set up an illegal, secret meeting with an industry spokesman only weeks before his case was to be heard.

The clandestine affair was thwarted by a pro-consumer FPC official who charged that the secret session would violate FPC regulations and could lead to a sell-out to the natural gas industry.

We learned of the meeting from a sheaf of confidential documents which were slipped to us so that we might inform the public of the costly hornswoggle which could affect half the United States.

The plot to sock the American housewife with a whopping gas rate increase is a complicated affair, as we explained in earlier columns. What it boils down to is this: FPC Chairman John Nassikas and his pro-industry underlings sought to grant $4 billion worth of increases by using gas industry figures which they had already been told were unreliable.

These figures — disputed by Nassikas's own economic staff — attempt show that the industry must get huge rate increases if it is to develop new gas reserves.

FPC rules clearly state that no staffer can meet off-the-record with a potential witness who is directly involved in a disputed case. This rule is designed to prevent the FPC from giving away its case or making any deals with the potent industries it is supposed to regulate.

Yet Tom Joyce, head of the Bureau of Natural Gas, set up a closed-door meeting between the FPC top brass and John Jacobs, the persuasive chairman of the Gas Reserves Committee of the American Gas Association.

The conference was expressly designed to exclude consumer advocates such as the American Public Gas Association who were also parties to rate cases.

In a memo dated March 18, 1970, FPC General Counsel Gordon Gooch, the very man charged with enforcing the commission's rules, gave the meeting his personal approval, even though John Jacobs was scheduled to testify on the case on May 1, 1970.

On March 23, a few days before Jacobs was to huddle with his supposed regulators, an FPC official revolted.

Haskell Wald, head of the FPC Office of Economics and long a fighter for the consumer, outlined his apprehension in a confidential memorandum to General Counsel Gooch.

"Impression of Collusion" Wald's memo is worth quoting at length for it shows more vividly than any of the Nassikas Papers the Byzantine world of the FPC, where pro-consumers and pro-industry factions are locked in combat.

"It will be a closed meeting," Wald wrote. "There will be no transcript or official minutes and there will not even be a public announcement that it is being held."

Some quarters already viewed the industry figures with "intense suspicion." Wald said. He warned of the "Danger of criticism if word of the meeting and the subjects discussed reaches outsiders."

Jacobs would be "clued in" by the meeting on what his testimony should be and might "also gather suggestions on how he should shape the responses on cross-examination. No other witness will be given this advantage."

Wald frankly suggested it might well "create an impression of collusion." Finally, he said, such a meeting violated both written rules and "definite instructions," and therefore should be called off.

Wald's timely protest succeeded. The meeting was cancelled a few days before it was to be held.

Gooch asserted to my associate Les Whitten that he was "responsible for calling it off." He did not mention Wald's protest or his own earlier approval of the meeting. Nassikas has declined comment. Jacobs was in Morocco and could not be reached.

Footnote: Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, chairman of the House Small Business Special Problems subcommittee, is calling Nassikas in July to testify on our revelations. Our documents, said Smith, cast doubt on the FPC's figures. Smith said it appeared that small businessmen, housewives, and the poor would be victimized by the $4 billion increase.

Brazilian Sugar Plum We told earlier this month how millions of dollars in U.S. sugar quotas were handed to racist South Africa despite congressional strictures against buying sugar from nations that discriminate against American citizens.

We have now learned that the Brazilian dictatorship will receive a $19,909-ton sugar quota worth millions despite a Congressional edict from the House Agriculture Committee barring quotas to countries where the benefits don't sit down to the people who grow the sugar.

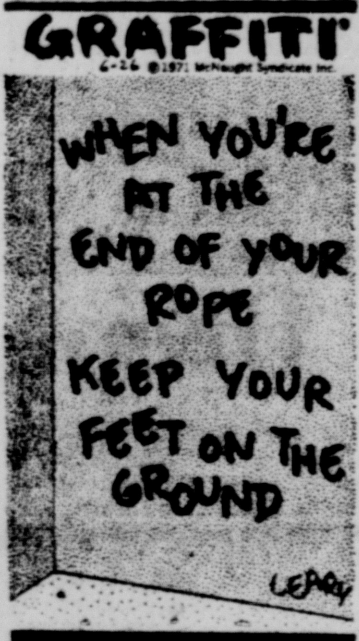

Instead, Brazil's dictatorship sees to it that the sugar oligarchs in the northeast plantations get the sugar cash from the U.S. Few of the benefits reach the workers.

When Professor Joe Page of Georgetown Law School tried to explain this to the Senate Finance Committee, he received one of the year's rudest receptions on Capitol Hill. Russell L. Oniz, D-La., chairman of the committee, had issued a grandiloquent handout saying he wanted to examine how the benefits of (the quotas) flow through to the working man and serve to improve the standard of living of the nation involved.

Page stated that wages are often less than $2.25 per six-day week for the Brazilian peasants who grow the sugar. But as he began to detail how the government and sugar kings conspired to starve and cheat the 500,000 northeastern Brazilian peasants, Long, champion of "the working man," stumbled over from his seat and abruptly left the hearing room.

Senator Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, was the only member of the committee who stayed to listen to Page's testimony.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., however, has been working to curtail giveaways to countries where the American bounty never reaches the workers in the field.

Moscow Had Hand in Plot Against President Sadat

By LEN DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — We shall probably never know all the facts about the recent conspiracy in Egypt but some East European diplomats now believe that Moscow had a hand in the attempted coup against President Anwar Sadat.

The man who spearheaded the plot, Cairo's former Vice President Ali Sabri, was one of the Kremlin's top agents in the Middle East. His chief accomplice, Sharawy Gomaa, who had charge of Egypt's intelligence service, worked closely with the KGB, Russia's secret police.

"These men could not and did not conspire against Sadat without the knowledge and consent of the Kremlin," a veteran diplomat told this writer.

The Russians never trusted Sadat, he said. They were especially suspicious of his close advisers, Premier Fawzi and the mildly pro-Arabian editor Muhammad Heykal.

The Soviet leaders apparently resented Sadat's failure to reveal the contents of letters he exchanged with President Nixon and Secretary of State Rogers. They feared a secret Egyptian-American deal.

This explains why the Soviet press and radio remained strangely silent for almost a week while Cairo was seething with intrigue and rumors of a civil war.

The men the Kremlin obviously underestimated Sadat's popular support. It seems that they expected an easy victory for the well-organized conspiracy.

It also explains why, after it became clear that the coup failed, Russia's President Podgorny rushed to Cairo to sign the 15-year Soviet-Egyptian treaty of "Friendship and Co-operation."

"It was I who insisted on signing the treaty," a gleeful Sadat told Cairo's People's Assembly.

But there was little joy in Moscow, judged by the Soviet press. For the men in the Kremlin, the treaty was a bitter pill to swallow.

It was, in fact, the first pact of its kind that Moscow had entered into with a country that is both non-Communist and that lies far afield from the Soviet border.

Caught by surprise, the Russians apparently had no choice. Their huge investments in Egypt, military and economic, were in jeopardy. They had to come to terms with Sadat to prevent a total fiasco.

The Russians, of course, hailed the treaty as a "rebuff" to American efforts to increase influence in the Arab world at the expense of the Soviet Union. But it is clear that they do not trust their Arab "friends."

Moscow's Pravda continues to denounce political figures in the Middle East who advocate improved relations with the United States.

Commentaries in the Soviet press are increasingly attacking President Nixon's "intrigues" and his efforts to help bring about a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The men in the Kremlin are worried. Who knows better than they that treaties often become no more than pieces of paper?

There are also some indications that not all the members of Russia's all-powerful Politburo agree with the hawkish policy of Communist chief Leonid Brezhnev. Some apparently fear that the Middle East is fast becoming Moscow's "Vietnam."

Meanwhile, the cease-fire in the Middle East continues. Both Israel and Egypt, encouraged by the Nixon administration, go on with the negotiations to reopen the Suez Canal as a first step toward a general settlement.

Brass Ignores Own Experts

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A most worrisome aspect of the Pentagon Vietnam papers is their evidence on how frequently high officials of the government have ignored facts presented by their own professional subordinates whether these professionals were in the Pentagon, the State Department or Central Intelligence Agency.

Sometimes the unpleasant or "nonconforming" data was screened out by White House assistants, sometimes by the President.

The Vietnam papers, of course, don't tell the whole story.

One reasonably high official with access to President Johnson and with some considerable technical skill at analyzing military action reports told me that in a face-to-face session, he warned the President that the messages from the officers involved in the Tonkin Gulf attack on U.S. destroyers were too vague and inconclusive, and that they should be treated with extreme caution.

Johnson looked up and said sharply: "When your advice is wanted you will be asked for it. Good day."

Shortly after the official was transferred to a post out of the direct line of action.

Those who said what pleased Johnson were moved in closer to his ear. There are other examples from one administration and another.

The evidence of the technicians was largely ignored in the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. They were, in the main, overruled by men in the new Kennedy administration with little or no experience in this type of operation.

The technical evidence of the Defense Department's own top experts in guerrilla strategy and tactics was largely passed over in planning and fighting the Vietnam war. Search-and-destroy sweeps, aerial bombings of the type routinely ordered, the use of large numbers of conventional troops — all were anathema to those high officials and officers most experienced in guerrilla operations.

More recently, the Pentagon's own official research study on the lessons learned from the Vietnam war to be applied in any future similar situation has been put on the shelf. It hasn't been contradicted; it has been ignored.

RV Play, Election

KYSERIKE Elections and play productions occupied Rondout Valley Central School students during the last few days of the semester.

New class officers were selected by the Middle School eighth grade in preparation for next year when they will be ninth graders at the Rondout Valley High School.

Serving as freshman class leaders will be Mike Meehan, president; Louis Padilla, vice president; Marianne Mulligan, secretary and Mark Wikane, treasurer.

Ninth grade representatives to the Student Council for 1971-72 are Victor Behoriam and Ralph Hiller.

Other doings at the Middle School in recent weeks included the presentation of a Chinese play, the Wonderful Tang by Beaumont Bruesse. Resplendent with colorful characters, the play was presented in the tradition of the Chinese theater with a property man who sets up all stage properties and a chorus which acts as formal narrator of the play.

Cast of the play was Alison Clocker, William Cook, Jonathan Pierce, Joseph Orleib, Susan LaFera, Paula Guillon, Dawn Zurawel.

Also Stephanie Seymour, Arthur Steinhof, Robert Rooney, Lawrence Faro, Jeri Styles, David Lawrence, Grace Ponicke, Theron Cole, Joseph Winters, Peggy Paterno, Wendy Snyder, Daryl Hoffman, Kurt Cross, Steven Stauby.

Music was by Susan Bowden and makeup by Carolyn Elmore.

Properties were secured by Robin Frost.

Trudy Santiago, David Brown, Randy Wynkoop, Kurt Cross, Steven Stauby, William Brush Timothy Jolley, Luann Smith and Douglas Locke as student committee.

Costumes were arranged for by Kathy Thornton, Sandy Lent, Cheryl Ritter, Nancy Royce, Wilma Wright, Brenda Kellogg and Betty Davis.

The production was a joint effort of several Middle School clubs. The actors were selected from a Children's Theatre Club for fifth graders, which is under the direction of Mrs. Jeanne O'Donnell. The properties were made by members of a fifth grade Scenery Club supervised by Mrs. Phyllis Rose. The costumes were made by an eighth grade Home Economics Club under the direction of Mrs. Betty Smith.

These three clubs are among the many clubs available to all Middle School students. Each club runs for a ten or twenty week period and allows the students to pursue their special interests. Vice Principal Peter Zegel is the coordinator of the clubs.

The production was directed with the use of creative dramatic techniques. In creative dramatics the children are not asked to memorize lines from the script. They read the script lines once and then discuss the various scenes of the play. The main idea of each scene is put into sharp focus by this method. The student is therefore able to interpret his part in his own way and in his own words.

The interplay of the children in interpreting their parts leads to a truly life-like production. So life-like are they that no two performances will be quite the same. By using this method the young actors are not simply developing theatre techniques but also qualities of self-expression, imagination, and interplay of personalities.

Set Fund Campaigns

Fund drives for worthy causes are being conducted at two area high schools.

The Class of 1973 at Ontario Central High School announces that the school will again be sponsoring an annual magazine drive. This community service provides funds needed for the support of the Senior Class trip.

The campaign will open Sept. 28, and will end Oct. 12. The students will have a complete listing of more than 150 of America's leading magazines. When a customer places an order, he will receive an official receipt signed by the student. Orders will be forwarded to the publisher.

New, renewal, and gift subscriptions may be ordered at this time. Orders will be greatly appreciated.

Saugerties Senior High School Concert band will make its fall debut in new uniforms if the current fund raising campaign continues toward the $6,000 goal.

Although school is out for the summer efforts will be continued through the vacation period to reach the top. Contributions may be sent to the administration offices, West Bridge Street. Donations may be given to any member of the band or the director. Checks may be made payable to the Senior Band Uniform Fund.

To date nearly 60 church groups, social organizations, service clubs, fire companies, businesses, industries and individuals have contributed to the fund bringing the current total to $4,000.

David P. Keehn director, and band members have expressed their appreciation to those who have helped. Keehn said the campaign will continue until the goal of $6,000 is reached.

A BOCES First

The Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County recently conducted its first annual certificate Awards Assembly to a full house at the New Paltz High School.

Robert Braun, assistant Director of Vocational Education opened the festivities with the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by the Rev. Randall Bosch, Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston, who gave the invocation. Mr. George Fernandez, assistant superintendent of BOCES, greeted the certificate recipients, parents, friends, school administrators, and guidance personnel on behalf of the Cooperative Board of Education and Dr. Jack L. Roosa, executive officer, who was unable to attend.

Michael M. Aronica commended the entire vocational staff for an excellent job in planning and executing the event, and the New Paltz School System for providing their facility for the conduct of this first Annual Awards Assembly.

In a short address, Aronica gave a brief chronological account of the development of the vocational program and projected some ideas for the future. He explained that the enrollment has grown from approximately 200 students in 1965-1966 to slightly more than 900 for this coming September.

"Secondly we have modified each secondary school into a comprehensive high school because students are residents of their home school where they participate socially in the events of the school for one-half day and come to the Centers for employment preparation during the remaining one-half day. Realistically, every student in Ulster County has available a host of career preparation courses from Computer Programming to Oil Burner Servicing. This ladies and gentlemen is the definition of 'Cooperative Education'.

He continued, "The objective of education is not high scores on scholastic aptitude tests — the objective should be to help every young person to develop his capacity for productive participation in our society. As to the future, Aronica advised that statistics and studies indicate the greatest increase in job opportunities will be in occupations requiring a high school education. For example, craftsmen of all types, service occupations, operatives of many varieties.

"We must therefore keep our curriculum current, expand our offerings, and convince our parents and students of the vital importance of vocational education."

George Langwick, president of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services presented certificates of completion to 217 vocational students. In addition to the presentation of the certificates, 19 students received outstanding achievement awards for consistently maintaining a high degree of proficiency in their occupational sequence.

Robert Braun, presented 18 of the outstanding achievement awards and Thayer Miller

How do you answer the last line about attending? Do you say: "Will yes attend" or "Will two attend" I know you answer "Will not attend" if you can't. PATRICIA

For everyone who has had this question: You should never fill in a number because the invitation is intended for only the people to whom it is addressed. When it is sent to a couple, the first line is filled in "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe" and the blank space is left empty. Do not write in "yes." The card, when filled in this way, reads, "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe will attend" or "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe will not attend."

DEAR MRS. POST: I received a birthday card from my boss and the card also was signed by his wife, whom I barely know. What should I do about thank-yous? Do I write to her, or just thank him and ask him to thank his wife for me. JUNE

Dear June: Even though you do not know the woman well, you should write a note to the home, addressed to Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, thanking both of them.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady whose husband didn't think she needed a washer-dryer and suggested she do what the Indians did: My husband used to tell me how his mother did things, so I told him I would try to live as his mother did if he would cooperate. Since his mother couldn't drive a car, his father made all the necessary trips to town, so he would have to do that. I would spend as much time cleaning the bathroom as his mother spent cleaning the outhouse, and since she didn't have a refrigerator, I'd never defrost ours. I also needed a few teen-aged girls to help me since he had three older sisters, none of whom could go to high school because they had to help at home.

DEAR ABBY: I have two questions for you: Is it proper for a girl to ask a guy what she should wear when he asks her for a date?

Also, do you think it is okay for a girl to tell her date she thinks he looks neat? Or isn't it cool for a girl to compliment a guy on the way he looks? I am 15.

DEAR ELLEN: It's not only "proper" — it's sensible for a girl to find out how to dress for a date. Ask him what the "plans" are. A girl wouldn't dress the same for a dance as she would for a movie or a hockey game.

And yes, it's "cool" to compliment a guy on the way he looks. Guys have vanity, too.

DEAR ABBY: You are entitled to know in advance how many guests you will have. The "peculiarity" I see here is not in you, but in your husband who allows his daughter to manipulate him and inconvenience you.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sangaline are employed by Sears. She is the manager of the children's department.

Dear Abby One Dinner Guest Turns Into More

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971, by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I have a dinner party, my husband's 28-year-old daughter by a previous marriage calls him at his office and asks if she may bring a "friend," but invariably this "friend" turns out to be two or three extra people.

I can seat a limited number at my table and to squeeze in two or three extra guests at the last minute is not to my liking, as I have had to change my plans and serve buffet.

I would like to tell this girl exactly how I feel, but my husband says I shouldn't say anything that he will explain my "Peculiarity" to her. I'd like your opinion.

DEAR ANNOYED: You are entitled to know in advance how many guests you will have. The "peculiarity" I see here is not in you, but in your husband who allows his daughter to manipulate him and inconvenience you.

Would you believe, I never heard a word about how his mother did things after that? ZEELAND, MICHIGAN

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for saying that if parents would let their children have the kind of weddings the bride and groom want, the wedding would cost LESS and mean MORE.

This sure struck home with me because my parents wanted to turn my wedding into a three-ring circus when all my fiancé and I wanted was a simple little ceremony in the chapel. There was so much tension and hard feeling between my parents and his that we broke our engagement and didn't speak for five months.

One night we ran into each other accidentally and we sat down and talked it over. Two weeks later we eloped. Our parents were furious, but they got over it.

Abby, please keep telling prospective brides not to let their parents repay their social obligations on an occasion which means so much. Please omit my town if you print this. No point in rubbing salt into a still fresh wound. Sign me: "NO WEDDING AND COULDN'T BE HAPPIER"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

An Ordinary Man to Give Reply

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Calvin Plageman has never been on television before, but he will turn up on the home tube Sunday because he thinks people in his line of work—auto mechanics—have been given a bad image, and he wants to reply.

His chance will come on NBC-TV's early evening "Comment" series, which encourages persons from various walks of life—mostly well known persons—to speak out on whatever is on their minds.

And although it is hardly a revolutionary thing that NBC TV is doing by putting Plageman on at his own request, it is nevertheless one approach to something that commercial television ought to be doing more of—getting the citizenry on the home screen with direct comments of this sort, stressing everyday reality that smacks of neither news show headlines nor the plastic conversation of most entertainment series. Video rarely reaches viewers on an intimate, person-to-person basis.

Plageman is a 45-year-old auto mechanic from El Cajon, Calif., and according to NBC

The maxim, "Silence is golden," might well have been written by a bridge player.

Over the years, we have seen more trouble caused by players using their tongue instead of their brain.

East took two diamond tricks. After slight study, he decided his best chance to defeat the five-spade contract would be to give everybody a chance to ruff a diamond.

He led a third round of the suit. South couldn't wait to say, "Thank you." He discarded the trey of clubs and ruffed with dummy's king. West discarded the deuce of spades but our hero paid no attention.

He cashed the dummy's ace of spades, continued with the six spot and finally stopped to think. It was too late. If he ruffed low, West would overruff. If he ruffed high, West would be sure of a trump trick.

South noted that he could have reached his hand by playing clubs, but felt that his play had been a better attempt.

He was right about that, but if only he had thought a little at trick three he would have made his contract. There was no hurry about that club try it anyway." He told the auto mechanic to "say whatever you'd like to say." And Plageman accepted.

He will appear in pretty snazzy company. Pianist Glenn Gould, for instance, will also be on Sunday's "Comment" program, talking of why he feels music's real future will be in recordings, video and radio.

And Sen. Gaylord Nelson appears on the same broadcast, discussing drug industry advertising that is misleading to the public. Yet another guest will be Jean Francois Revel, literary editor of L'Express, who talks of the New American Revolution.

Edwin Newman is the host of the series, which tapes each segment individually, and airs it without editing or interruption.

But the star attraction this Sunday is undoubtedly Plageman, who has been a full-time auto mechanic for nearly a decade.

If he can persuade people to change their minds about auto mechanics, there's no telling how far he can go in television.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

ITEM: Conservatives drop Two GOPers.

That headline followed Tuesday night's Conservative Party city convention where Alderman Titus B. Sims and John L. Machione were dropped from the Conservative ticket for their vote in favor of fluoridation this past Jan. 5 in the Common Council.

Sims was not present when Mrs. Lucy Freer, a 13th Ward Conservative committeewoman, read a letter from Mrs. Belle Lockwood, another 13th Ward committeewoman, condemning Machione and Sims for their vote for fluoridation and proposing that their names be dropped. Party Chairman Bernard Singer, acquiesced quickly ordering the names removed from the ticket and probably preventing a nasty scene at the convention.

Machione, at that point, was still in shock. Or so it looked from where we sat. The convention broke up shortly after that and we hustled over to Machione to get his reaction.

John, judging from the following conversation, wasn't reacting too well, at all.

Freeman: John, what do you think about all this?
Machione: It certainly came as a surprise to me. Bernie Singer called me up this afternoon and asked me to come down here to accept the nomination. I didn't expect this.

Freeman: The Conservative nomination certainly proved crucial to you the last time out. In fact, you wouldn't have won without it. Right?

Machione: You know, I might have run better last time without the Conservative nomination.

Freeman: What... do you mean by that?
Machione: I don't know.

Ward Todd from WKNY was also on hand and asked this of Machione: "In view of tonight's developments, John, do you intend to change your position on fluoridation?"

"Thank you," Machione said. "I've got to talk to Bernie Singer."

Sims arrived from a meeting at city hall shortly after, got the bad news on the courthouse steps, and obviously upset, departed.

It wasn't so much the denial of the nomination that got the two aldermen upset, it was the timing. Both had been assured within hours of the convention (Sims as late as two hours before the convention kicked off) that they had the nomination. It would have been quite a different matter if Singer had told them both that the party could not accept them because of their views on fluoridation... in advance. Machione and Sims, no doubt, feel they were made to look like fools, the way things worked out.

Things, from what we hear, will work out for Sims and Machione in the long run. Our sources indicate that the Conservatives do not consider fluoridation a political issue at this point. It was defeated in January and they'd just as soon leave it buried. Sims and Machione, we think, will wind up with the nomination, based on their overall records, not just their voting on one issue.

As for Mrs. Freer, we kind of admire her stand. Politicians should be made to stand behind their records. Mrs. Freer didn't approve of the voting record of Sims and Machione on a particular issue. She took action against them where she thought it would have the most effect. Mrs. Freer is certainly an exception in this apathetic world we live in.

Fluoride fallout — Four aldermen voted for fluoride on Jan. 5: Sims, Machione, Mrs. Florence S. Ludlow and John E. Finch. Mrs. Ludlow, the Fourth Ward Representative, isn't running again. Finch, from the Fifth, is, and the fluoride issue may be a factor in his campaign.

The tide against fluoridation ran particularly high in Finch's ward with petitions much in evidence. From what we heard one petition alone had over 200 names on it opposed to fluoridation, the majority in Finch's ward.

Speaking of Mrs. Ludlow again, the Council's 'First Lady' finally got a committee chairmanship after almost four years in office. Bob Gallo, Council president, appointed her chairman of a special committee to work with the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association on their plans for a shopping mall in mid-Broadway. It matters not that the mall scheme is all but dead, it's the thought that counts.

GONE TO THE DOGS — Kingston, which has been down that road before, will probably have to pick up its dogs beginning July 1, the date the SPCA says it will cancel its contract with the city.

Last year, the city had its own dog collector, Jesse Decker, who, although diligent of duty, was unequal to the task.

Ed Norton, the finance chairman of the Council, says he's going to conduct an investigation of the financial conditions of the SPCA to make sure the city got what it paid for.

Norton may be in for some tough going. Relations with the city and the humane organization have never been that cordial and there's little reason to believe that the SPCA will open its records to any Common Council investigators.

On the practical political side, we've always had our doubts of the city's sincerity in controlling its dogs. There are upwards of 1,600 dogs in the city, very few of them orphans. One can imagine the phone calls (from owners) the aldermen would get if the city or its agents really enforced its dog ordinance.

MEET MRS. FISH — City Engineer Tom Wickman and his wife Ann hosted an afternoon cocktail party on the 20th to introduce Mrs. Hamilton Fish Jr., the former Mrs. Billy Cline of Millbrook, to Ulster County. The Wickmans spared no expense, we are told, and a fine time was had by the upwards of 200 invitees who attended.

The Congressman and his wife spent a busy afternoon greeting people on a day when temperatures must have reached 90. Fish came in for some kidding, about all things, his feet, conservatively estimated at size 14. Van Haver came over, looked down and quipped, "I've heard you can walk on water. Now I believe it."

Governor Approves Adirondack Agency

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced his approval today of a bill creating a new agency to control development of projects in Adirondack Park. The agency would have the power to protect the 6-million-acre park or more than five lots within the park.

"Creation of the Adirondack Agency must submit a Park Agency," he said, "will master plan for land use and help to insure optimum overall development to the legislature by conservation, preservation, development, and use of the park. In the meantime, scenic, historic, ecological, time, it will be empowered to deal and natural resources of the delay projects that it determines Adirondack Park by providing mines will endanger the park's long range planning and interim scenic, historic, ecological and controls for land use development-natural resources."

The bill was passed over 1, with the idea of giving local government in the legislature governments more time to over opposition from lawmakers make zoning changes before the in the area. They complained agency takes over. Changes that home rule and zoning laws made after July 1, however, will be subject to review by the Under provisions of the mea-agency.

Army Declines to Seek Death Penalty

Medina Trial Date Set by Court

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Capt. Ernest Medina, no longer facing the death penalty, is scheduled to go on trial July 26 on murder charges stemming from an infantry sweep through the Vietnamese village of My Lai nearly three and a half years ago.

The Army announced Friday that Medina would be court-martialed on a noncapital basis. Shortly before, Col. Kenneth Howard of Atlanta, the military judge, denied defense dismissal motions and ruled that Medina must stand trial.

Howard initially set the date as July 19 but changed it at the request of Maj. William Eckhardt, the prosecutor.

Eckhardt announced the Army decision not to seek the death penalty. He said he had been instructed by the commanding general of the 3rd U.S. Army, Lt. Gen. Albert O. Connor, to treat the case as non-capital.

Medina, if convicted, still could face life imprisonment.

The 34-year-old career soldier from Montrose, Colo., was the company commander of Lt. William L. Calley's platoon. Calley was convicted earlier this year of murdering 22 civilians at My Lai and sentenced to life in prison. His case is under military review.

Medina is accused of personally killing two persons and of being responsible for the deaths of 100 others during the operation at My Lai.

Eckhardt told Howard that trying Medina on a noncapital basis would permit the Army to use written testimony in its prosecution, such testimony is inadmissible in capital cases.

Howard said Eckhardt would be allowed to go to Vietnam July 6 to take depositions from two South Vietnamese who were at My Lai with Medina's unit.

The developments in Medina's case came at the close of a six-day preliminary hearing.

Medina's civilian attorney, F. Lee Bailey, had argued during the hearing that high-ranking Army officers improperly influenced the proceedings and biased the officers responsible for an impartial evaluation of evidence. He said the Army felt public opinion demanded a trial regardless of the evidence.

Howard ruled that the Army fairly investigated the case.

"I do not find it was the over-all policy of the Army to deny the accused a fair consideration of the charges against him,"

Howard said. "I do not find this case to be pervaded by command influence. I do not find he was to be tried regardless of the evidence."

ENJOYING A LAUGH—Army Capt. Ernest Medina enjoys a private laugh with his wife Barbara after a military judge had just set his court-martial trial date for July 26. The judge rejected defense motions for dismissal and ordered Medina, accused of the overall responsibility in the murders of 102 civilians at My Lai in 1968, to stand trial. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

U.S. Forces Aiding S. Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — American tanks and armored personnel carriers today joined South Vietnamese forces in the fighting around the abandoned Fire Base Fuller just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), military sources said.

It was the first time U.S. ground forces had become involved in the weeklong struggle around the mountain-top outpost five miles south of the DMZ.

Fuller was overrun by 1,500 North Vietnamese troops Wednesday night and recaptured by South Vietnamese troops less than 24 hours later. It was finally abandoned, its fortifications and bunkers destroyed by air strikes.

Military sources said the American armor, from the 1st Brigade of the 5th Division (mechanized), took up blocking positions east of Fuller and were firing in direct support of the South Vietnamese.

U.S. B52 bombers meanwhile kept up heavy raids in support of allied troops around Fuller, flying four missions in the 24 hours ending at noon (12 midnight EDT), the U.S. command said. Since May 21, nearly 20 million pounds of bombs have been dropped by B52s over Quang Tri Province, which includes Fuller.

The U.S. command also reported a North Vietnamese rocket attack that killed one GI at Camp Carroll, a joint U.S.-South Vietnamese outpost, four miles southeast of Fuller.

Another American was killed and six were wounded when an armored personnel carrier hit a mine eight miles northwest of Fuller and the pilot of an American UH1 Huey helicopter died when it was shot down east of An Khe, 240 miles northeast of Saigon on Friday. South Vietnamese troops battled the Communists two miles east of Fuller, killing 12 North Vietnamese and capturing four weapons Friday afternoon, military spokesmen said.

The South Vietnamese command rushed 5,000 fresh troops into the battle for Fire Base Fuller. A regiment of government marines moved into Fire Base Sarge, eight miles south of Fuller.

Official South Vietnamese figures issued today showed 13 government troops killed in the fighting at Fuller.

Another Day of Peace Protests

KENOSHA, Wis. (UPI)—A second day of protests were planned today by members of a Veterans of Foreign Wars "Peace Post" who were suspended by the national VFW for antiwar activities.

The post staged a six-block march and held a rally Friday in protest over the suspension. There were no arrests or incidents with police.

The post was suspended for 60 days for antiwar statements contrary to the national VFW stand which advocates total victory in Indochina.

Mel Cohen, commander of the post, said Friday, "We just want a quiet show of support for our views against the war."

Cohen spoke at a rally attended by about 45 persons, most of them members of the Kenosha chapter of the Mothers For Peace. He said he would ask the state VFW convention here Saturday to read a letter composed by the post.

The letter said in part: "We choose not to exercise our rights as members to take the floor of this assembly... but pledge never to succumb to the tyranny and overreaction that met our honest constitutional exercise of our very right to speak... something which we are ready to defend."

One of the four "peace post" members here for the rally, Chuck Goranson, a Vietnam veteran, resigned in an open letter to H.R. Rainwater, San Diego, Calif., the VFW National Commander.

Goranson said he was sure now the VFW is "made up of far-right wing people and drunken old men with older ideas." He said he had never thought of joining the VFW until he saw members of the Madison Post "march in Madison in the name of peace and brotherhood" this past Memorial Day.

Shortly after he joined, his letter said, "the post was suspended because it agreed with the vast majority of Americans, including the President, who want the U.S. out of Vietnam."

16,000 Is Two-Month Draft Quota

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparently satisfied the House and Senate will reconcile differences in the draft law, the Defense Department has announced a quota of 16,000 for July and August.

"It is prudent planning and gives draft-age youths and the Selective Service notice of what's coming," one Pentagon official said Friday.

Other defense officials said the action was taken because both chambers have approved a two-year extension of the draft law, which expires June 30. They expect the differences to be resolved on other aspects of the bill with the final legislation sent to President Nixon during July.

The major difference is an amendment in the Senate version calling for a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam over nine months if all U.S. prisoners of war are released. It is likely to receive a cool reception both in conference and on the House floor.

But even if the bill should be passed in Congress longer than anticipated, defense officials said the July-August quotas could be filled by college students whose deferments have ended.

A spokesman said the usual paper work for the new quotas was being processed by that draft director Curtis W. Tarr said he would not issue the call to the states until Congress completes action.

Officials said the two-month quota will be equally divided between July and August. This falls well within Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's prediction last April that draft calls for the rest of 1971 would not top 10,000 a month.

DeSapio Begins Serving Two-Year Prison Term

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Carmine G. DeSapio, a once poor youth who rose to head New York's powerful Tammany Hall political organization, has begun serving a two-year federal prison term for bribery and conspiracy.

DeSapio, 62, was convicted Dec. 13, 1969, by a federal court jury in New York of three counts of bribery and conspiracy. A codefendant, reputed Mafia figure Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, also was convicted.

The government charged DeSapio was involved in a conspiracy to pay James L. Marcus, former New York City water commissioner, to pressure the Consolidated Edison Co. into awarding construction contracts to a Mount Kisco, N.Y. contractor.

The contractor then was to pay the kickbacks to DeSapio, the government said. Marcus and an associate, Herbert Ikin, a New York attorney, were named coconspirators but not defendants in the case. Ikin was the chief government witness.

DeSapio, expressionless and wearing his customary tinted glasses because of iritis, a painful eye ailment, was escorted by a U.S. marshal Friday through the gates of the high-walled federal prison in this central Pennsylvania town.

DeSapio's last bid to remain free was turned down last month by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The Bureau of Prisons in Washington said that after approximately seven days of processing, he is expected to be assigned to the minimum security Allenwood, Pa., prison camp near Lewisburg. He will become eligible for parole next Feb. 24 and mandatory release with time off for good behavior would be Jan. 31, 1973.

DeSapio, former head of New York City's Manhattan Democratic organization, spoke often of "good government." He backed the first black borough president in New York and installed the first Puerto Rican district leader.

DeSapio's influence took a downturn in 1958 when Republican Nelson Rockefeller captured the governorship by defeating Democrat Averell Harriman, DeSapio's choice.

PUMPING UP AND DOWN in vigorous display of teamwork, vols from Westerly, R. I. are sure to turn crimson-faced and breathless as they try to cop first place honors for their 'tub,' known around the eastern circuit as "Defiance."

THIS 'HAND TUB,' affectionately known as the "Aberdeen," will wend its way to the antique pumper contest from South Kingston, Rhode Island. Hand-drawn and hand-pumped, it's a rare beauty.

Those Magnificent Men and Their Pumping Machines

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

A trek back to the days before yesterday? Not only possible, but ready and waiting for you at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds.

Hundreds of volunteer firemen from more than a dozen small towns around the east will descend on the fairgrounds Saturday, July 17 for a hand-pumping, water-squirting contest that will turn the clock back more than 100 years.

Arriving with antique fire engines, affectionately dubbed "hands tubs," in tow, the visiting vols will treat spectators to a lively demonstration of firefighting techniques before mechanization.

'Good Old Days' Fun

All of the pumpers competing in the day's contest are holdovers from the late 19th century. And the sight of firemen straining at their handbrakes to build up water pressure, their faces turning red and their breath coming in gasps, will take those cheering on the sidelines back to the "Good Old Days" of flickering gaslights, wooden sidewalks and horse-drawn streetcars.

Thousands streamed in to see the last such competition at the Dutchess Fairgrounds in Rhinebeck back in 1968. That's when the grand old "Gardner No. 4" out of West Newbury, Mass., spurted a stream of water almost 180 feet into the air to enter the winner's circle.

And, believe it or not, these water-squirting contests take the cake as one of America's oldest and most arduous competitive sports. Just to watch the vols lugging and tugging their ancient rigs into position is to return in memory to the yesteryears of mouth watering penny candy, barbershop quartets and handlebar mustaches, hitching posts . . . and tickets issued by the corner cop for driving a horse across the village bridge faster than a walk.

Pre-1896'ers Only

The upcoming huffing and puffing event has an official title: New England States Veteran Firemen's League Muster. Hosted by the Rhinebeck Fire Department

(the only New York member of the New England group), it will feature pre-1896 fire engines only . . . all competing for the prize money.

The popular favorite in the July contest, of course, will be "Pocahontas," the 112-year-old engine owned by the Rhinebeck Fire Department. Built in 1859 and bought by Rhinebeck that same year, "Pocahontas" is a hand-constructed beauty of cherry and mahogany wood. With metal fixtures of iron, brass and copper, she's still functioning with her original equipment except for wheels and suction hose. In her favor for "muster" or pumping competition, she's been known to throw a stream of water over 214 feet. "Pokie" can also lay claim to an average pumping stream of 173 feet, 11 inches — not too far removed from the Gardner's victorious spurt in 1968.

Joining "Pokie" on July 17 at the fairgrounds will be hand engines of all sizes from Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire. Before the Muster, they'll all parade in old-fashioned splendor through the Village of Rhinebeck.

Great for Photographers

So, grab your camera and go on over on July 17. Photographers will have a field day at this unusual event — and non-photographers will find it entertaining, enjoyable and educational.

Best of all, if you'd like to join in the fun and come possessed of strong lungs, there'll be room on one or another of the tubs for you to help pump away.

The parade kicks off at 11 a.m. and the pumping competition gets underway at 1 p.m., with no admission charge. It's an event with appeal for the entire family, as intrepid vols sweat and strain and push and pump — or duck for cover when pistons blow and "dornes" let go to zoom off like rockets in air.

An exciting competitive and spectator sport, dating all the way back to the days of harness shops, Wild Bill Hickok and the Village Square. Plain and simply, fun for one and all, no matter what age.

Sloop Returning to Kingston Point Beach

CRAIG BROOKS and his guitar provided a 1970 highlight for Clearwater visitors. Brooks will probably be on hand for one of the three free music festivals slated this weekend when the now celebrated sloop docks up at Kingston Point Beach for its third visit locally.

There are other things besides wine that improve with age.

A case in point would be the Hudson River Sloop "Clearwater," no longer the brand new beauty she was three summers ago—but somehow statelier now that she's been weathered a bit in plying the waters.

And just as pertinent as ever is the sloop's anti-pollution message, since the once sparkling Hudson is still as murky as when the Clearwater first set sail in an effort to improve the waters of the detergent and chemically abused river.

Free Music Festivals

For both those reasons, TEMPO welcomes the news that the Clearwater docks in Kingston for its annual visit this weekend. For the third straight year, the sloop has chosen this city for a stop-over; will host free festivals of music this afternoon, today and tomorrow afternoon at Kingston Point Beach.

Woodstock folksinger Sonia Malkine will again take over as mistress of ceremonies for the songfest to introduce a host of talented area musicians (along with others from regular crew and from the ranks of veteran sloop chasers). This latter breed spends summer weekends following the sloop from port to port.

Some 40 different groups and individual performers will appear at one or another of the

PETE SEEGER, who's been described as looking somewhat akin to a gangly pine tree, has also been credited with being the "Father of the Folk Revival." Seeger, acclaimed as a singer and composer, will perform Sunday at the Clearwater music festival.

AIRBORNE POLLUTION blights Kingston scene, photographed by Marcia Newman of High Falls. It was judged first place winner in Photo Contest sponsored by Ecological Task Force and Kingston Sloop Group. Contest was limited to various types of pollution throughout Ulster County.

WHILE NATURE'S HILLS are not everlasting, they will probably be here a long time. Man-made hills of dust at Kingston cement plant, are more everlasting than nature's in the destruction of our natural environment. Photo was entered in Ecological Force-Sloop Group contest by Rob Gannon of Tillson.

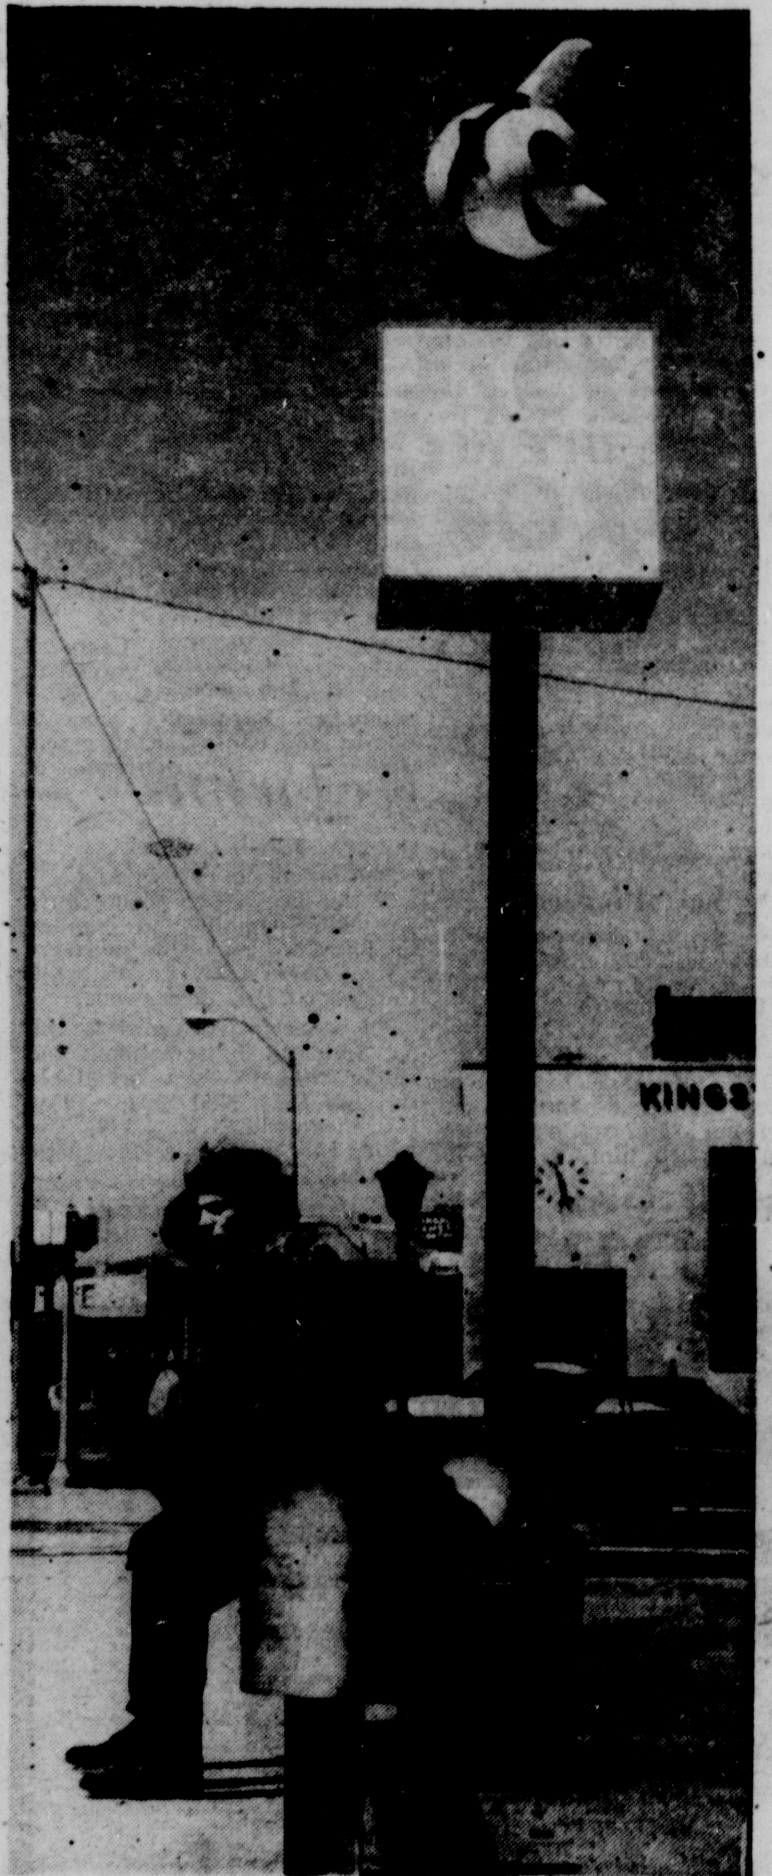

DON'T BURN IT is the message in this photo, entered by Rob Gannon. State law prohibits open burning of leaves, but Kingston homeowner caught in act proves ecology's citizen action slogan: "If you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem."

THIRD PLACE WINNER among pollution photos was shot of chaotic jumble along "The Highland Riverfront," taken by Janet Gruner. Second place winner appears on TEMPO'S cover; is by Tony Minochi of Bridgeport. Prizes included subscriptions to New York Conservationist magazine and memberships in Hudson River Sloop Restoration group.

VINTAGE VISUAL POLLUTION proliferates at the edges of many towns today. Highland photographer Janet Gruner submitted "The Back of the Highland Depot" for judging in contest, proving the historical landscape sometimes forces the face of America to emulate the portrait of Dorian Gray.

MODERN VISUAL POLLUTION characterizes this shot in mid-town Kingston. Imagine the scene with a towering oak or elm replacing the garish plastic clown and visualize it devoid of overhead utility lines and poles, and you'll realize the meaning of environmental conservation. Photo's by Rob Gannon.

Humor Hurts and Dual Comedies At Playhouse Aim to Prove It

Humor hurts—and ADAPTATION by Elaine May and NEXT by Terrence McNally are both unblinkingly honest one-acters so hilarious they could kill you.

These dual comedies—recently one of Off-Broadway's all-time successes—will open as a double-bill at the Woodstock Playhouse on Tuesday, June 29; run through Sunday, July 4.

Elaine May's "Adaptation" dissects the American Dream and reveals it to be a macabre television game show in which everybody loses. Miss May, known globally for her comedy sketches with comic-turned-Oscar-winning director Mike Nichols, was hailed by critics after the opening of this play as a brilliantly funny writer. And indeed it is a marvelously satiric play that examines the shortcomings of modern society with rare wit and inventiveness.

Forget the Preserver

One noted critic praised playwright May as "one of the great wits of our time," called her play "terribly funny," added that "If I seem to have gone overboard, don't bother with the life-preserver."

Terrence McNally's "Next" fared equally as well at the hands of critics. "This hilarious play literally explodes with laughter," wrote one journalist, "as it examines the plight of a reluctant draftee reporting for his physical to an Amazon-like WAC sergeant." Funny, provocative and touching, "Next" is a degradingly hilarious physical exam, in which a specimen of contemporary human life finds that he's riddled with American values and, therefore, doomed as a human being.

Starring in the Woodstock Playhouse production of ADAPTATION will be Phil Allen, Sean Griffin, Tanny McDonald and Louis Smadbeck Jr. Appearing in NEXT will be Gretel Cummings and William Young.

Both one-acters will be directed by Isaac Schambelan, who comes to Woodstock from Connecticut where he serves as artistic director of the Long Wharf Children's Theatre and Touring Company. He has also directed plays in New York, as well as TV commercials; can be expected to direct his fine Woodstock cast with a dead-serious wit that assures us we're insane after all.

Plaza Suite Continues

Meanwhile, PLAZA SUITE continues in Woodstock through tomorrow night. Authored by the ingenious Neil Simon, of "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple" fame, SUITE is composed of three uproarious comedy skits linked together by their setting in the same room of New York's fabled Hotel Plaza. Alan North and Scotty Block star as married couples facing crises in two of the plays, and as long-ago sweethearts reunited in another.

It's gay and breezy; filled with laughable, real life situations; well worth seeing before it closes.

Reservations for both the current and upcoming plays can be made by calling the Playhouse, where group rates for camps and theatre parties are also available.

TANNY McDONALD, who doubles as an executive secretary and recalcitrant bride-to-be in "Plaza Suite," the current Woodstock Playhouse hit, will be back in a top role in "Adaptation," the comedy following "Suite" to the art colony stage next week.

Storm King Is for Music & Art Lovers

Music and art lovers will enjoy the summer chamber music concert series to be presented for the 12th consecutive year at Storm King Art Center, located off Old Pleasant Hill Road in Mountainville.

The beauty of the Art Center, with its fine exhibitions and well-tended gardens overlooking the Hudson Highlands, makes this converted mansion an ideal setting for summer concerts. Amplification allows the listener to sit either in the long gallery with the musicians or outside on the patio or lawns.

The concerts are produced in association with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. Many of the summer's musicians perform with the orchestra during the winter season. Kenneth Fricker, manager of the orchestra and its principal bassist, is coordinator for the chamber music series. Mrs. Maurice Vaillant, of Salisbury Mills, is chairman.

July 11 Opening

The opening concert will be on July 11. The program will offer MOZART: Divertimento for Violin, Viola and Cello in

Quarry Signed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Robert Quarry signed a contract with American International Pictures for two films a year for five years.

E Flat Major, K. 563 and BEETHOVEN: Septet in E Flat Major, Op. 20. On July 25, an all-French program of Saint-Saens, Ravel, Dupont and Debussy will be performed by Hudson Valley Philharmonic musicians. This concert will feature Nancy Allen, a high school student from Carmel who is a virtuoso on the harp.

The outstanding Alsop-Bernstein Trio, which made its debut at Alice Tully Hall last fall, will perform on Aug. 8. Both Lamar Alsop, violinist, and his wife Ruth, cellist, are prominent figures in music in New York.

Alsop heads the Carnegie String Quartet, which played in this series last summer. With Seymour Bernstein, concert pianist and composer, they will present a program of Beethoven, Mozart and Shostakovich.

Final Concert

The fourth concert in Aug. 22, will feature the Canterbury Woodwind Quintet, so popular in past season. The program will include Danzi, Milhaud, Persichetti and Beethoven.

All concerts will be at 5 p.m. on Sunday. Subscriptions and single tickets are available through Mrs. Ned Shreve, Box 182, Cornwall, N.Y. 12518. The series subscription is $10; single admission is $3.

Exhibitions in the Art Galleries throughout the summer will be sculpture on loan from the Whitney Museum, and prints and drawings by Karl Schrag. The galleries are open daily except Mondays from 2 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Abundance of Talent In Summertree Cast

A talented cast with background experience in comedy and ballet to chorale soloing, heavy drama and children's theatre has been signed to introduce the Summertree Playhouse to area audiences.

The Playhouse opens this Monday, June 28 at its home on Spruce Street in Tannersville and the producers have brought together a promising cast, including Rosemary La Placa, Don Hayes, Richard Blum, Bob Miralotta, Allyson Banner and Laraine La Placa. The skillful stage direction will be handled by Tony Calabrese, and musical direction will be the domain of Mason G. Senft.

Rosemary La Placa will star in all productions planned as Summertree's leading lady. A ballet soloist for four years, she has also trod the boards at New Jersey's Surfflight Summer Theatre and North Carolina's East Carolina Summer Theatre.

Fresh from Tour

Also joining the Greene

County enterprise will be Don Hayes, who has appeared with Charleton Heston; has just completed a lengthy tour in such hit comedies at The Moon Is Blue, Sunday in New York and The Tender Trap.

Musicals are the forte of Allyson Banner, whose credits include leads in A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Guys and Dolls and Once Upon a Mattress. Playing leads is nothing new for Bob Miralotta either. He was soloist with the famed Harry Simeone Chorale, a member of the much-applauded Prince Street Players, and starred in Stop the World, Irma La Douce and Kiss Me Kate. At Summertree this season, he'll play Andy in Star Spangled Girl and the mysterious El Gallo in The Fantasticks.

Other featured performers include Richard Bloom, fresh from a two year tour in A Thousand Clowns, A Shot in the Dark and The Mousetrap, and featured recently in the New York Film Festival, and Laraine La Placa, a veteran of numerous productions as well as a writer and director for experimental theatre.

Directorial Talents

Musical director Senft teaches at Adelphi University; has directed for the Gateway Playhouse. Director Tony Calabrese's career has included Off-Broadway, dinner theatre productions and several seasons of stock. Also a screenwriter, his new feature, ZODIAC, goes before the cameras this fall and another, GIN, is set for Italian production soon thereafter.

Monday's opening night production for Summertree is I DO! I DO! A musical adapted from Jan De Hartog's hit comedy-drama, "The Fourposter," it was written by the talented team of Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt.

So, drive on up and get your tickets at the box office for this delightful musical, made famous on Broadway by Mary Martin and Robert Preston and covering 50 years of marriage from the honeymoon to old age.

BOB MIRALOTTA, who formerly cavorted with the acclaimed Prince Street Players and sang with the Harry Simeone Chorale, will be one of the regular cast members this season at the new and soon-to-open Summertree Playhouse in Tannersville.

No Jerky Flickers For These Silents

This summer's series of Silent Motion Picture Classics at Orange County Community College, Middletown will open June 30 with three Buster Keaton comedies.

The showing of "The General," a 1927 masterpiece, at a 3 p.m. matinee and "Steamboat Bill" and "Sherlock Jr." at an 8 p.m. performance will set the pattern for six Wednesday twinbills of film greats from the silent screen.

The 16-film series will be screened in the air-conditioned Harriman Hall theater of OCCC, and no advance registration is required. Admission to the 90-minute matinees is $1.50 and $2 to the three-hour evening shows. Showing dates are June 30, July 7 and 14, and Aug. 4, 11 and 18.

"The enjoyment of these pictures depends on the conditions under which they are shown. In Harriman Hall we have excellent high fidelity, the right size screen and the proper seating capacity of 200 for the most advantageous showing of these great classics of the silent screen," said Bown Adam who, with his actress wife Virginia Daly, will conduct the series.

Buster Keaton's "The General," taken from authentic records of the Civil War, was recently voted the second best all-time comedy second only to Charlie Chaplin's "The Gold Rush".

"Steam Bill" and "Sherlock Jr." are listed as two of the best 50 silent pictures in Joe

Franklin's "Classics of the Silent Screen."

Adams has devised a projector with special optical system and take-up reels that permit the pictures to be shown in natural movements, without the jerky flicker of television clips, plus uninterrupted showings up to two hours. Special orchestrated sound tapes accompany each film. Virginia Daly will act as commentator for all films and conduct brief question-and-answer periods.

4 MILES NORTH OF KINGSTON ON RT. 9W, KINGSTON, N. Y.

FOR MONTHS ON END NOW, audiences across the U. S. have sobbed along with Ali McGraw (L) as the ill-fated Jenny in "Love Story." In this scene, set in a library, she first meets Ryan O'Neal as the university student she marries. The reigning box office champ, "Love Story" opened a long run locally with a gala premiere Wednesday at the Mayfair Theater.

MOVIES

Love Story

Well, we were right. We knew the day would come when we'd rue our role as movie reviewer.

Here we had a personal invitation from that nice Dan Cox, new manager of the Walter Reade organization here, to be his guest at a gala premiere at the Mayfair Theater. So, naturally, we accepted . . . and took advantage of his hospitality—and then put ourselves in this position of having to say some tongue-in-cheek things about the movie he was premiering.

Bad enough to feel like a snake in the grass where the charming Mr. Cox is concerned, but worse by a long shot to have to admit to thousands of TEMPO readers that there's something slightly weird about us.

Not With the Millions

Ten million people have read and loved "Love Story," and many millions more have sobbed without restraint through the movie adapted from the novel. What can you say, then, about a hard-hearted iconoclastic female who sat down without one Kleenex in her purse and shed not one tear?

By way of self defense, we would advise you that it was always the rough and tumble tomboyishness of Jane Withers instead of the candy sweetness of Shirley Temple that roused our youthful admiration. And, in the intervening years, all the Mims of the world wasting away in their attics and all the Camilles gently coughing their way to oblivion moved us not.

Twice we have cried in our adult life before a screen; for Madame Butterfly and for Joe Louis against Ezzard Charles. But Butterfly died for a principle, not from an incurable disease . . . and the defeat of Louis was the death of a legend, not of a dream.

Small wonder, then, that the deathbed scene of Ali McGraw as Jenny (beautiful, feisty, life-loving and consigned to the grave at 25) failed to sway this unsentimental heart.

Most Won't Resist

If it'll get us off the hook, however, we predict just about everyone else will find "Love Story" a beautiful, romantic, clean and pure film. Few will be able to resist Jenny, the daughter of an Italian baker, and the sad story of her courtship by and marriage to rich, Social Register Harvard student Ollie Barrett IV (Ryan O'Neal). It's all lovely and soapy—and far better than the book.

So, pay no attention to this cold-blooded reviewer of tough rhinoceros hide. Join the crowd converging on the Mayfair and sob along with Jenny and all the rest. For these are handsome, healthy, all-American youngsters—dealt a saddening blow by fate—and their unblemished love is the stuff of which fantasy is made.

You'll enjoy it. As for us, we'll wait for the sequel—when Ollie has bandaged his broken heart, put his thoughts of Jenny aside, married another, and spends his time not collecting his memories beside a skating rink—but chiding his wife about the burned beans and arguing with his kids over the television.

Forgive us our desecration—but permit us, too, our right to that personal quirk that makes us prefer the reality of a "Diary of a Mad Housewife" to the "man must have his dreams" fantasy of a "Love Story."

The Andromeda Strain

By contrast, this is our kind of movie. Now playing at the Community Theater here, as well as Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In, it's a chillingly realistic science-fiction thriller. Directed with flair by Robert Wise and based on Michael Crichton's best-seller (we couldn't put it down once we started reading), it delves into some terrifying truths of top secret science.

PAULA KELLY is a nurse-technician in Wildfire Alert's five-level, super-sterile underground lab, the center of the action in "THE ANDROMEDA STRAIN," science-fiction thriller now playing at both Kingston's Community and Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In. All about a space satellite that returns to earth contaminated with a lethal extraterrestrial organism and the threat it poses to man's survival.

This is the finest sci-fi film in many a year; seems far closer to fact than to fantasy.

No slick, futuristic soap opera like so many of the genre, it is an excellent and intelligent production that offers insight into germ warfare and the political and militaristic reasons for space exploration.

Germ From Space

Basically, it's the tale of an unmanned satellite returning to earth and wiping out a small New Mexico town via a killer microbe it has picked up in space. It seems to become more documentary than fiction when four scientists (Arthur Hill, David Wayne, James Olson and Kate Reid) are ordered to an underground laboratory to isolate the space germ before it destroys the world.

Breath-taking suspense and fine acting make "The Andromeda Strain" a horrifying but brilliant film.

Lickerish Quartet

A typical skin-flick this, now playing at the Orpheum in Saugerties. Nothing to blow your mind over, but obviously a bit

Art Tickles by Mike Thaler

A Young Painter On the Way Up

The accent will be on youth full artistic talent when Woodstock's Ann Leonard Art Gallery presents a one-man show by painter Agnes Preston from July 4 to July 17.

The exhibit will open with a private showing Sunday, July 4 from 5 to 8 p.m., will then go on view to the general public for the duration of its run.

Painter Preston, already making a mark in the world of art at the young age of 26, is a native of Hungary; studied at the Academy of Fine Arts in Budapest. A first-prize winner in the Budapest Annual Drawing show in the mid-60s, she elected to enroll in the Sir George University School of Fine Arts in Montreal, Canada shortly thereafter. While there, she was honored with an award for outstanding work.

By 1966, she was in New York City to study on a scholarship at the Art Students League with instructor Vaclav Vyttacil; won the 1967 Best Painting Award there.

Further scholarship study has followed at the Woodstock campus of the League with Arnold Blanch, and at the State University College, New Paltz, with instructors George Wexler, Manuel Bromberg and Ben Bishop.

A 1970 graduate from Paltz and recipient of an Alumni Scholarship, Agnes Preston has exhibited work in New York City, Albany, and in various shows in Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties. Her show at the Leonard Gallery, 63 Tinker Street, Woodstock, should prove both interesting and intriguing.

Lewis Listings: Howe & Angeloch

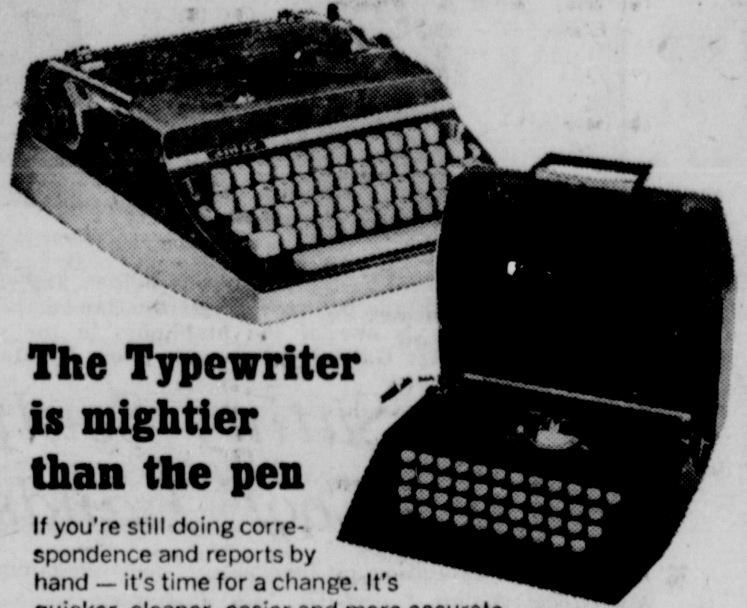

If you're an avid follower of art exhibition openings, you'll want to list two upcoming shows at Woodstock's rustic and unusual Lewis Galleries.

Gallery owner Alice Lewis is planning ahead for the dual highlights of the summer season at the Mill Hill Road showplace.

A one-man show of the works of Joan Howe is scheduled for a July 31 opening and is slated to run through Aug. 9.

Near season's end, a one-man show of the canvases of Robert Angeloch will go on view at Lewis Galleries. The Angeloch exhibit will run from Aug. 21 through Aug. 30.

Hours at the Lewis Gallery are 1 to 5 p.m. daily, and 8 to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturdays.

Satiny Sculpture; 'Cool' Landscapes

If the current exhibition at the Woodstock Artists Gallery can be characterized with one word, it might best be expressed as "cool." There are no explosive flights of fancy — but there are a number of solid works that are eminently appealing.

A wood sculpture by Jim Polland, Untitled, is especially engaging. Polland handles wood as if it were fluid and the satiny finish of the work makes for more than a merely decorative piece. Michael Densen's landscape shows evidence of beautifully controlled emotion. If, as a famous philosopher stated, "Landscape is a state of the soul," Densen's painting is an accurate exemplification of the aphorism.

Additional Attractions

Another fine work is Dorothy Varian's again Untitled work. Varied shades of orange dominate the canvas and the impression is of a kind of dazzling cosmic workshop where the dawns take their hues. Augusta Pirrung's Autumn, a collage with water color, of brilliant autumnal tones, invites praise — as does Dan Gottschalk's Israel Philharmonic, a typical Gottschalk collage. In another work Frances Dederick mounts various parts of a piano in a formalized design.

In retrospect, the show is deceptive. It is far more commanding than the first cursory view admits and is highly recommended to viewers.

Woodstock Artists Gallery is open during exhibitions daily from 1 to 5 p.m. except Thursday. The current program is made possible through partial funding by the New York State Council of the Arts.

Last Week of Pre-Season Hits

Five special events attractions of top interest and appealing to a wide range of ages and tastes are slated at Saratoga Performing Arts Center from tonight through July 2.

The exciting soul group, The Temptations, bows for the first time at SPAC's amphitheater in a concert scheduled tonight, Saturday, June 26, at 8:30 p.m. Notable for its longevity in an age of shortlived vocal groups, The Temptations have reeled off hit after hit since the mid-60's. Their current chart climber is "It's Just My Imagination." Stirring on records, they are much more so in person; have a genius for using lighting, costumes and choreography to create a show that dazzles the eye as well as the ear.

DUKE ELLINGTON will strike up the band for the first time at Saratoga when he puts his orchestra through its paces in a debut program on Thursday evening, July 1.

Then comes David Cassidy, 8:30 p.m. when the Center plays the handsome young star of TV's "The Partridge Family," who has soared to fame in just one year. He will make his debut appearance at Saratoga on Sunday, June 27 at 7 p.m. Cassidy will need to do little more than sing and play the guitar since, as Keith Partridge, he has already convinced millions of adoring teen and pre-teen female fans that he's a unique singing and acting talent. His gold record hits include "I Think I Love You" and "Doesn't Somebody Want To Be Wanted," along with a gold album, "The Partridge Family Album."

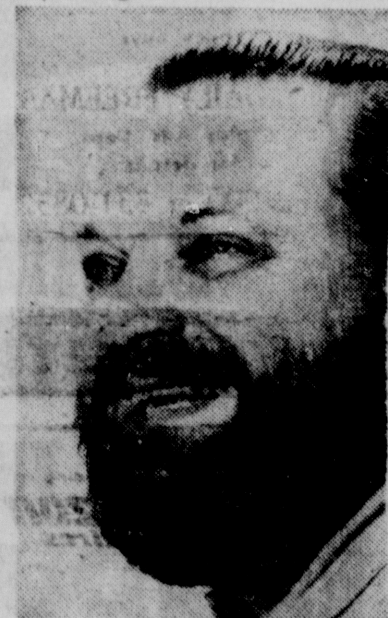

Blood, Sweat and Tears, the nine-piece blues-rock group whose global popularity was demonstrated on smash swings through Europe and the Orient last year, fills a return engagement at the amphitheater. Wednesday night, June 30 at 8:30 p.m. Last year 16,000 streamed to Saratoga to hear them perform such hits as "Hi De Ho," "Lucretia Mac Evil," "Spinning Wheel," "You've Made Me So Very Happy," and "And When I Die." The first big group to successfully fuse rock with jazz, blues and big band, Blood, Sweat and Tears has been a phenomenal record success; racked up a first for the recording industry with three gold record singles from one album.

In person, deep-voiced singer David Clayton Thomas and Blood, Sweat & Tears perform with electricity and spontaneity; have drawn huge crowds not only at Saratoga, but at Forest Hills Stadium, both Fillmores and across Eastern Europe.

The nostalgic will fill the amphitheater and lawn on the evening of Thursday, July 1 at 8:30 p.m. when the Center plays host for the first time to Duke Ellington, one of America's great bandleaders and showmen. A show biz veteran of half a century and such a giant of jazz that it's only normal to expect big things from him, he'll put his orchestra through a program of standards and his own elegant versions of today's songs.

To close out the week of pre-season specials, Al Hirt and his golden trumpet return to SPAC for an entertaining session Saturday, July 2 at 8:30 p.m. That means the audience can expect to hear such songs as "Java," "Honey in the Horn," "Cotton Candy," and "Sugar Lips" by the man they call "The King."

AL HIRT, one of the most popular trumpeters in the U.S. and ever popular at Saratoga, returns to the Performing Arts Center for the Saturday, July 2 evening show.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

New York may boast Mamma Leone's but Kingston has Papa Joe's. And talk 'bout reincarnation!

Located on Downs Street in what used to be Carl's Fish Market, any resemblance to its former life is strictly a-la-nostrils. Today, 'tho there's still the potent aroma of food permeatin' the area, instead of fresh fish, it's spaghetti and meatballs.

It's well-nigh impossible for one to recall the market's interior after seein' what a splash of color and a bright idea or two workin' together can do in the face-lifting department. Black and white paint job livened up with touches of red, new carpeting and drapes, and simulated candle chandeliers more than make memory of market fade into oblivion.

Individual tables blanketed with red cloths are decorated with basketed bottles which hold lighted melted wax candles while giant wooden eating utensils mark the spot where deep fish fryer used to be. Floral paintings, boat scenes, fruit and vegetable still lifes, and dining room favorite — hunk o' bread an bottle o' wine — dress up spotless walls, add class, and make Italian atmosphere so-o-o sono buoni.

To start off a repast, there's baked stuffed clams, pimento and anchovies, or two sizes of antipasto. Following appetizer are entrees such as Spaghetti with tomato, meat or clam sauce, with mushrooms, oil and anchovies, meatballs, sausage or chicken. Lasagne is offered at $2.25; homemade Ravioli (cheese or meat) at $2; Open Hot Meatball Sandwich; Stuffed Peppers; Braciola (steak rolls); Chicken or Veal Parmigiana; Veal 'n' Peppers.

Of course, for those whose tastes run strictly Americano, there's Broiled Sirloin Steak at $4; and for sea gourmets, Shrimp Scampi at $3.75; Shrimp Marinara $3.75, all served with baked potato or french fries, tossed salad (choice of dressing), bread and butter.

Desserts are extra and varied; ice cream or sherbet, Biscuit Tortoni, Spumoni, Hot Apple Square, Cheese or Rum Cake; Peach Melba.

Operated by Anthony Amato, Papa Joe's Spaghetti House — named after Tony's Papa (and who else would tell you these things?) — offers clientele a small chunk of Italy by way of a cozy, quiet nook in the center of Kingston City, USA.

Judging from business one recent Sunday afternoon, local diners've discovered the budget priced eating place and are reacting favorably. But then where spaghetti is concerned, there's usually a wee bit of Italiano in all of us!

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

THE PARTY LINE

I know I promised last week to "cut down on the commercials" . . . and I will, I will! But you can't fault me for being proud of the kind of parties we've been getting at Roberto's! Especially since we don't claim to be the cheapest game in town, just the best. Luncheons, Dinners, Big Parties, Little Parties, Booked-Ahead Parties and "Instant" Parties . . . we've been getting a wonderful array of special affairs, representing a pretty wide spread through Ulster County and Across the River.

We thank all of you who have Partied with us, and all of you who have booked future dates. Especially, may I thank Barbara Read for this note:

"Dear Ernie: On behalf of the Ulster County Business & Professional Womens Club, may I express our deepest Thanks . . . for an exceptional, enjoyable evening on Tuesday Night. Your Staff, from Serving to Singing, was the greatest. Your Food was Scrumptious!"

Barbara A. Read,
President, Ulster County
Business & Professional Womens Club.

You, too, can have the opportunity to write such scrumptious notes, merely by having your next Party at Roberto's!

SCENE AT ROBERTO'S

A gala Party was held here on June 7th, celebrating the 75th Birthday of a long-loved gentleman, Mr. Charles Cafaldo, formerly of Glasco, N.Y., but now residing with his daughter and son-in-law, Frances and Jerry Nuzzo, of New Paltz. In addition to them and son Jerry, the party included his son, Michael Cafaldo, of Glasco; Mr. and Mrs. Al Greco, and daughter Teresa Michele, and Mrs. Pasquale Nuzzo, all of New Paltz; Bob Nuzzo, of Tropical Inn, and son Patsy, and Miss Wilma Greco of Glasco. A Diamond Birthday for a Gem of a Man! The next night was the Annual June Dinner of the Red Hook Home-makers, spearheaded by Chairwoman Valerie Hoffman, Vice Chairwoman Eleanor Staats, and Treasurer Mary Ellen Gehr. Additional members and guests included: Pat Anderson, Myrtle Aucock, Ruth Belcher, Mabel Boice, Linda Buckley, Nancy Cascone, Peggy Clelland, Helen Cural, Françoise Donovan, Ann Gilfeather, Joyce Hladik, Linda Jenkins, Jane Juart, Ann Mool, Jennie Loweth, Bobbie Mosher, Eileen Mosher, Rita Rebhan, Val Schwarz, Jacquelyn Ward, Pierrette Wildman and Helen Zomkowski. From A to Z . . . the comment was: "Excellent Food, Speedy Service, Handsome Waiters . . . We'll be back!" How do you like that? Waiters getting equal billing with cuisine! Another party from "Across The River" was the Annual Dinner of a Canasta Club from Poughkeepsie. The "players" were: Marcia Bailey, Marcia Beck, Sybil Beveridge, Dorothy Estes, Ruth Hanlon, Hilda McComb, Hazel Thorne and Katherine Woodin. On this night, everybody picked the pack, nobody got misused, and everybody won. The "scorekeeper" wrote: "Excellent Service; Wonderful Dinner; Lovely Atmosphere. (Even in the severe thunderstorm!)" On Friday, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, AFL-CIO, Local #186, of Kingston, held their Executive Board Dinner . . . said Board consisting of: Mae Martello, President; Marion Smith, V. Pres.; Mary Coughlin, Sec'y; Marjorie DeGraffe, Treas.; Rita Ward, Business Agent; and these Board Members: Dorothy Berardi, Esther Haughey, Theresa Hendricks, Elizabeth Kidd, Anna Lucas, Frances Lucas, Penny McAndrew, Dorothy Smith, Irene Tegar, Anne Tierney and husband, Fred (how did he get in here?). Florence Van Brenner and Edith Webber.  That same night we were honored with a Dinner for The Red Hook Faculty Association, with 125 guests. Being an honest (if nothing else) "colymist", I have to print their comment in full: "Food Excellent; Service Good; a bit crowded at Tables." For the last item, I'm sorry; I'm not being flippant when I yearn for rubber walls, so we could stretch our capacity on such occasions. Problem is: Friday at Roberto's is beginning to rival Saturday as a night out, especially for groups.  We had another party that night (a "table for two"), rather unusual because it was for the gregarious Griggs' . . . June and Dick, who usually dine with their group. Dick noted: "June's Birthday; not telling, but over 39 and less than 41. Just the two of us, enjoying dining at Roberto's; as usual, the best in the Hudson Valley." Well, they say life begins at 40; may your future be as healthy and happy as your past.

Saturday brought an Anniversary Party, their 13th, for Mr. and Mrs. Allyn J. Washington, of Hyde Park; at table, remembering their own marital milestones, were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lehman, (11 years) and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilson (20 years); plus Miss Margaret Kautzer and Mr. Robert Shea (no years yet!). All but the Washingtons are from Poughkeepsie.  The 40th Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Schatzel, of Kingston, brought together a geographically diverse group of New York Staters: Mrs. Catherine Banko, of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barquist Jr., of Wappinger Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Holmes, of Johnson City; Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weiss, of Poughkeepsie; Miss Joan Weiss, of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wejdan, of Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wood, of Elmendorf Orchard;

From the table that held Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hoffman and Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Anderson Jr., this note: "Just a Nite Out; Had a Delightful Time." That's what I hope makes Roberto's a bit different . . . not just good food, but also a good time enjoying it!

MISH AND MASH

Just because I haven't found time lately to talk about the "Saturday Shivarree" at Roberto's, don't you forget it! The fun still runs from after-dinner to the magic hours, and a kaleidoscopic cast of talented friends . . . some of the regulars, some new faces . . . seem to gather around Mark Garrison and Tommy Fitzgerald as naturally as bees gather around clover, moths gather around lights, or make up your own simile. But the fun is always here, and it's mellow. P.S.: You don't have to dine to enjoy the evening at Roberto's; the action is in the Cocktail Lounge, after Dinner.

of smut that's selling well at the box office. The same old exploitation routines against settings far too pretty for the subject matter.

"Lickerish" is laid (pun intended) in a magnificent castle south of Rome among mountains. But all that ever happens inside is a constant coupling of all sexes in the midst of lavish decor. There's a lot of nonsense thrown in about reality and illusion, but it's just last year's porn updated with a few more nudes and a few more grasps and a great many more bad actors. Shame to waste all those gorgeous sets and all that lush scenery.

"Lickerish" keeps the exploitation cycle rolling, but it's not the type of thing we'd suggest as anyone's valentine.

Other Choices

10 RILLINGTON PLACE and THERE'S A GIRL IN MY SOUP. The local Sunset Drive-In currently couples the first-run "Rillington," a fascinating and excellent film, with the much rerun "Soup."

In "Rillington," we have the true story of the infamous John Christie, the English mass murderer of women and children. Richard Attenborough is superb in this role and the film is a finely detailed account of true crime and the execution of an innocent man. It was the Christie affair that led to the abolition of capital punishment in Britain.

The co-feature, "Soup," is a so-so comedy starring Peter Sellers as an aging TV chef and Goldie Hawn as the younger woman with whom he becomes romantically involved.

LITTLE MURDERS. Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema is showing this very funny Jules Feiffer film that waxes insane, angry and humorous in its comments on human and family relationships.

Great direction by Alan Arkin and expert acting by Elliott Gould.

LITTLE BIG MAN. Held over at Hyde Park's Roosevelt, director Arthur Penn, star Dustin Hoffman and an outstanding supporting cast have turned in a stunning and absorbing film based on the fictional autobiography of the 120-year-old sole non-Indian survivor of Custer's Last stand.

A NEW LEAF. Now playing at both the Hyde Park Drive-In and Red Hook's Lyceum, this totally pleasing comedy with Walter Matthau as a gigolo and Elaine May as a millionairess. An extra, added attraction at Hyde Park is "DARLING LILI," starring Julie Andrews as a singing German spy and Rock Hudson as a World War I flying ace. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

JULIE ANDREWS is all set to dig into a shrimp cocktail and Rock Hudson is enjoying his clams in scene from "DARLING LILI," the musical film about a singing secret agent. It's back for a rerun in the area on the current double bill at the Hyde Park Drive-In.

Playhouse Concert for Clinic

The featured performers will this coming Monday, June 28 be among the best in the field at 8 p.m. on the stage of the at the big benefit concert slated Woodstock Playhouse.

The benefit musical romp will offer Happy and Artie Traum, The Fabulous Rhinestones (known to former fans as Harvey Brookes Band), Stuff, and Gary Kooper.

Admission to the concert, promising a rare evening of entertainment, is only $2. All proceeds will go to one of the worst causes in the area—the building fund for Woodstock Medical Clinic and for the Community School.

Both the clinic and the school have sites already available; hope to finance buildings for their operations by the fall of this year.

Monday's concert at the Playhouse is the first of a series of fund raising activities to bring in the needed monies for these two worthy projects.

Original Dramas

ABC announced plans for beginning a monthly series of original 90-minute dramas for daytime television early in 1972. Major talents and high production standards are promised for the shows, which will be taped in New York and Hollywood.

three musical programs at Kingston Point this weekend. Kingston will field such popular favorites as The Rev. James Childs Church Choir, folk artist and historian Harry Siemsen, Ed Flick, Carolyn O'Dell, Neil muson, and patrolman Richard Scherer—if he's not on duty call.

From Woodstock will come Ann Deutsch, singer guitarist-banjoist Billy Faier, Tom Lane, folklorist and singer Same Eskin, recording stars Happy and Artie Traum, Sean O'Brien and Frank Fletcher.

And Still More

Also on hand for the shoreside festivities will be the much applauded Redstreet and, James Collier, Capt. Allen Aunapu of the sloop, Steve Courtney, and guiding light and singer composer Peter Seeger, who's expected for the Sunday afternoon program.

Then, too, as in the past, there's always the chance that a "name artist will make time at the last minute to drop in unexpectedly for a song or two. It's happened before with such as Jerry Jeff Walker of "Mr. Bojangles" fame, Bob Gibson and Johnny Herald.

Everybody from anywhere in the area is welcome to go down to the beach and enjoy the music, browse through the arts and crafts exhibits (a new feature this year), study the educational ecology displays, and climb aboard the Clearwater for a tour.

And, if you're a musician or singer and would like to take a turn at entertaining, check in with Sonia Malkine and she'll see that your name goes on the schedule.
